

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT MIDDLE DISTRICT OF FLORIDA TAMPA DIVISION

KETO NORD HODGES, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

Case No. 8:24-cv-879

KATHLEEN PASSIDOMO, et al.,

Defendants.

THE SECRETARY’S MOTION REGARDING THE SUFFICIENCY OF PLAINTIFFS’ DISCOVERY OBJECTIONS AND MEMORANDUM

In this racial gerrymandering case, Doc.28 at 1, this Court must assess whether race predominated in the legislature’s decision to draw certain state senate districts and, if so, whether the legislature narrowly tailored its use of race; Plaintiffs don’t question whether the use of race serves as a compelling interest. Doc.1 ¶¶ 8-9. To assess racial predominance, all inputs into the legislative process remain relevant. Yet Plaintiffs object to the Secretary’s discovery on inputs. With good-faith attempts to resolve the matter having proven unsuccessful, the Secretary moves under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 36(a)(6) to assess Plaintiffs’ objections to the Secretary’s requests for admissions. The Secretary maintains that the objections are unjustified. As such, this Court should overrule the objections, require answers, and assess expenses against Plaintiffs under Rule 36(a)(6) and Rule 37(a)(5).

Discovery Requests

On June 21, 2024, the Secretary served his first set of requests for admissions on Plaintiffs. Attachment 1 (requests for admissions). On July 22, Plaintiffs responded to those requests. Attachment 2 (responses). At issue are Requests 3, 4, and 5, and Plaintiffs' responses to the requests. The requests and the responses are as follows:

Request 3: Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida discussed redistricting with members of the state legislature during the 2022 redistricting cycle.

Response: Plaintiffs object on the grounds that this request (1) seeks information that is not relevant to any party's claim or defense, and (2) calls for the admission of information protected by the ACLU of Florida's First Amendment privilege.

Request 4: Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida discussed redistricting with Matthew Isbell during the 2022 redistricting cycle.

Response: Plaintiffs object on the grounds that this request (1) seeks information that is not relevant to any party's claim or defense, and (2) calls for the admission of information protected by the ACLU of Florida's First Amendment privilege.

Request 5: Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida encouraged Matthew Isbell to participate in the 2022 redistricting cycle.

Response: Plaintiffs object on the grounds that this request (1) seeks information that is not relevant to any party's claim or defense, and (2) calls for the admission of information protected by the ACLU of Florida's First Amendment privilege.

The parties exchanged discovery letters concerning these (and other) discovery requests, and on September 12, the parties conducted a meet and confer regarding the dispute. The parties reached an impasse. This motion follows.

Legal Standard

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure “strongly favor full discovery whenever possible,” and a party is “entitled to any information sought if it appears reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.” Akridge v. Alfa Mut. Ins. Co., 1 F.4th 1271, 1276 (11th Cir. 2021) (cleaned up). To that end, Rule 36 allows a party to propound requests for admissions. And Rule 36(a)(6) says that the “requesting party may move to determine the sufficiency of an” “objection” to a request for admission. “Unless the court finds an objection justified, it must order that an answer be served.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(6). The court should also assess expenses, including attorney’s fees, under Rule 36(a)(6) and Rule 37(a)(5).

Argument

Plaintiffs raise unjustified objections to the requests for admissions. The requests are relevant to Plaintiffs’ racial gerrymandering claim (and any potential remedy in this case). Based on discovery in other redistricting cases concerning the 2022 redistricting cycle—Common Cause Florida v. Byrd, 4:22-cv-109 (N.D. Fla. 2022) (three-judge court), and Black Voters Matter v. Byrd, 2022-cv-666 (Fla. 2d Jud. Cir. 2022)—the Secretary has good-faith bases in making his requests. Finally, the First Amendment doesn’t serve as a bar to discovery in this instance.

I. The Requests Are Relevant to the Issues in this Case.

Plaintiffs’ first objection is relevance. But, in “the context of discovery,” relevance “has been construed broadly to encompass any matter that bears on, or that reasonably could lead to other matter that could bear on, any issue that is or may be in the case.” Akridge, 1 F.4th at 1276 (cleaned up). This low bar is easily cleared in this racial gerrymandering case where liability and remedy haven’t been bifurcated.

A central question in racial gerrymandering cases is whether race predominated in the drawing of districts—whether racial considerations “subordinated traditional race-neutral districting principles,” like compactness and respect for natural and geographic boundaries. Miller v. Johnson, 515 U.S. 900, 916 (1995). To assess whether race predominated, courts often employ the non-exhaustive Arlington Heights factors such as specific sequences of events leading up to a redistricting package, procedural and substantive departures from the typical redistricting process, contemporary statements from legislators, reasonable alternative maps, and foreseeability of disparate impacts, for example. That’s what the district court did in Jacksonville Branch of the NAACP v. City of Jacksonville, 635 F. Supp. 3d 1229 (M.D. Fla. 2022), another racial gerrymandering case brought by ACLU attorneys. There, relying on several Supreme Court cases, the court expressly said “[t]o determine legislative intent, the Court is guided by the Supreme Court’s decision in Village of Arlington Heights,” and its sensitive, fact-intensive inquiry. Id. at 1244 (collecting cases).

Also relevant is the Florida Constitution’s prohibition on taking partisanship into account when drawing redistricting plans. Fla. Const. art. III, § 21(a). In the past, the Florida Supreme Court has held that efforts by third parties to influence legislators tainted the process and infected the legislature’s later remedial efforts. See League of Women Voters of Fla. v. Detzner, 172 So. 3d 363, 378-93 (Fla. 2015).

All this is to say that under both federal and state precedent, the inputs for the legislative process matter when it comes to the output—the redistricting plan itself. See, e.g., Jacksonville Branch of the NAACP, 635 F. Supp. 3d at 1244. Whether members of the ACLU, a politically active organization, communicated with the Florida Legislature (Request 3) is relevant. It could provide information on knowledge and foreseeability of racial impact, for example. Or it could highlight a partisan bent that influenced the vote of some legislators. Or it could shed light on whether other plans were possible at the time the legislature was undertaking its work. Or it could just lead to other discoverable information. Also relevant, for much of the same reasons, is the request concerning discussions with Matthew Isbell, a known Democratic map drawer (Request 4). So too for the request concerning whether the ACLU encouraged Mr. Isbell to participate during the redistricting process (Request 5).

II. The Secretary Has Good Reason to Make the Requests.

A. As to Request 3, Plaintiffs already produced documents showing that an attorney with the ACLU appeared before redistricting committees, submitted district maps to the legislature, and emailed at least one state senator during the 2022 redistricting cycle. Attachment 3 (excerpts from Plaintiffs’ document production).

That, alone, should be sufficient to admit Request 3. Yet Plaintiffs refuse to answer it. Based on the meet and confer, it’s Plaintiffs’ position that the ACLU attorney—who works for the ACLU, whose name is on the “staff” list of the ACLU website,¹ and whose salary is likely paid by the ACLU—isn't a "member" of the ACLU. This, of course, goes against the "plain and ordinary meaning," M.D. Disc. Handbook III(A), of "member": "one of the individuals composing a group." Member, Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary.

True, Plaintiffs also produced documents, suggesting that the attorney appeared before the legislature as an individual, and not as a representative or official of the ACLU. But Request 3 doesn't turn on individuals appearing in individual/unofficial or representative/official capacities. It simply asks whether a member of the ACLU appeared before the legislature and discussed redistricting. Based on Plaintiffs' own document production in this case, the answer is "yes."

Discovery in other redistricting cases similarly suggests that the answer is "yes." The Secretary took depositions of legislators, and at least one legislator, Ben Diamond, testified that he spoke with members of the ACLU about redistricting around the time of the 2022 redistricting cycle:

Q. Did you speak with anyone from the ACLU about redistricting?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. Do you know who you spoke to?

A. So I met with—but now that I'm looking again at these dates, I think it was before the session. I had a meeting with Pamela Burch Fort, who I believe works with the ACLU, and I also spoke—I believe I spoke with Kara Gross with the ACLU.

Q. And did you speak about redistricting with them?

A. Yes.

Attachment 4 (excerpts from Ben Diamond deposition).

B. As to Requests 4 and 5, based on discovery from other redistricting cases, the Secretary knows that Matthew Isbell is a mapmaker aligned with the Democratic Party. Mr. Isbell has produced documents to the Secretary, showing that he spoke with legislators and staff about redistricting during the 2022 redistricting cycle. Attachment 5 (document created by Mr. Isbell). Mr. Isbell also produced documents showing that he spoke with Democratic operatives about redistricting decisions—including the shapes of senate districts in Tampa Bay, like old Senate District 19—in racial and partisan terms. Attachment 6 at 10 (Mr. Isbell’s texts (in blue)).

Significantly, Mr. Isbell produced 2,389 messages and 114 graphics, spanning 273 pages, with an ACLU attorney about redistricting during the 2022 redistricting cycle. Attachment 7 (Mr. Isbell’s messages with the ACLU attorney). The two discussed the legal merits of potential state and federal redistricting claims, that the attorney “submitted a tampa bay senate map,” “submitted 4” maps to the legislature, and that the “congressional map drawn by staff last week and picked by [Sen.] Ray Rodrigues today incorporates ideas I [the attorney] proposed 3 days after the first staff maps were released back in November.” E.g., Attachment 7 at 3, 107, 110, 135.

The Secretary is accordingly seeking third-party discovery from Mr. Isbell in the present case. This information can lead to other information concerning the 2022 redistricting cycle and about why the legislature drew particular district lines.

C. In short, based on the information the Secretary already has, his requests concern an input in the redistricting process: how members of the public, be they experienced mapmakers or members from political organizations, might have influenced the 2022 redistricting cycle and might have encouraged legislators and staff to not make—or perhaps to make—race-based redistricting decisions. The Secretary has a good-faith basis to conclude that members of the ACLU spoke to legislators and staff about redistricting during the 2022 redistricting cycle, that Mr. Isbell spoke to legislators and staff about redistricting during the 2022 redistricting cycle, and that Mr. Isbell and members of the ACLU spoke to one another about redistricting and coordinated efforts regarding redistricting. For now, the requests seek confirmation of these facts. This confirmation may later lead to other, relevant information about the influence the ACLU-led effort had on the legislature.

III. The First Amendment Doesn't Serve as a Bar to the Secretary's Inquiry.

Finally, the First Amendment can't stand in the way of answers. For starters, the First Amendment's associational privilege doesn't shield clandestine meetings with public officials. That makes the First Amendment objection wholly inapplicable to Request 3, which simply asks whether the ACLU discussed redistricting with members of the Florida Legislature during the 2022 redistricting cycle.

More importantly, as to Requests 3 to 5, Plaintiffs failed to make a prima facie showing that First Amendment rights were implicated in or affected by the requests. See Fla. State Conf. of Branches & Youth Units of the NAACP v. Lee, 568 F. Supp. 3d 1301, 1307 (S.D. Fla. 2021). Plaintiffs merely raised a boilerplate privilege objection, without “demonstrat[ing] how disclosure of the specific information” the Secretary requests would have the effect of “inducing members to withdraw” or “dissuading others from joining because of fear of exposure.” Id. (quoting NAACP v. Ala. ex rel. Patterson, 357 U.S. 449, 463 (1958)) (cleaned up, emphasis in the original). In other words, there’s no explanation or theory of how the right to associate would be harmed. That in and of itself defeats Plaintiffs’ First Amendment objections.

Conclusion

The Secretary asks this Court to overrule Plaintiffs’ objections, require them to answer the requests, and assess fees and expenses against Plaintiffs under Rule 36(a)(6) and Rule 37(a)(5).

THE SECRETARY’S FIRST REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS TO PLAINTIFFS

Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 36, Defendant Secretary of State Cord Byrd request Plaintiffs to admit or answer the following.

Definitions

1. The “Fair Districts Amendments” refer to article III, section 21 of the Florida Constitution.
2. The “non-vote-dilution provision” refers to the Fair Districts Amendments’ mandate that “districts shall not be drawn with the intent or result of denying or abridging the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process.”
3. The “non-diminishment provision” refers to the Fair District Amendments’ mandate that “districts shall not be drawn with the intent or result” “to diminish” racial or language minorities’ “ability to elect representatives of their choice.”

4. The “2022 redistricting cycle” refers to September 2021 to April 2022.

5. “Members” and “officers” are defined to include all members, fellows, students, residents, agents, leadership, executives, managers, or any other individuals associated or affiliated with the organization.

Requests for Admission

1. Admit that, for a legislative district to comply with the non-vote-dilution provision, race must predominate its drawing.

2. Admit that, for a legislative district to comply with the non-diminishment provision, race must predominate its drawing.

3. Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida discussed redistricting with members of the state legislature during the 2022 redistricting cycle.

4. Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida discussed redistricting with Matthew Isbell during the 2022 redistricting cycle.

5. Admit that members or officers of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida encouraged Matthew Isbell to participate in the 2022 redistricting cycle.

6. Admit that members of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida discussed the 2022 redistricting cycle with Barbara Pariente.

Senator Bradley,

I wanted to thank you for your thoughtful leadership of today's committee meeting, and draw your attention again to my plan submissions, now they've been posted:

- C0044: 'Snaps' the eastern CD 2 boundary to county lines, makes the 4/6 line more compact and regular in St. Johns, makes Sumter County, Groveland, and Mascotte whole.
- C0045: Builds on C0044, plus makes Volusia whole, following the St. Johns River.
- C0046: Eliminates CD 20's Boynton Beach appendage, makes 8 or 9 cities whole, while maintaining Black ability-to-elect.
- C0047: Utilizes the Everglades as the major boundary line in South Florida, makes CDs 19 and 25 compact, and incorporates other Tier Two improvements.

A full discussion of the goals, advantages, and tradeoffs for these can be found in the suggestion forms for each. Each of these partial plans can be plugged into the rest of the staff maps. Each district has 0 population deviation.

As I mentioned today, I'd be happy to answer questions about or otherwise discuss these suggestions.

On another subject, I've been doing some work in your neck of the woods recently – Bradford County (Starke and Lawtey). I've met some really great people over there, and I'm glad to have the opportunity to work on that project.

All the best,

Details:

This partial plan alters 6 districts from the staff-drawn maps published Nov. 10, changing Senate Districts 16, 18, 19, 20, 21, and 24 in the Tampa Bay area, to avoid SD 19 crossing the bay. In so doing, this plan better complies with Tier Two requirements, namely by eliminating a county split in Pinellas, keeping St. Pete and Gulfport whole, utilizing the Pinellas-Hillsborough line—which is one of the most major geographic boundaries in the whole state—while not introducing any additional city or county splits, and keeping all districts geographically compact.

This plan complies Tier One’s non-retrogression standard. Population changes in this region mean that it is no longer necessary to connect Tampa and St. Pete to avoid diminishing minority voters’ ability to elect candidates of choice in SD 19. In fact, the following key statistics actually increase in my plan from the benchmark:

- both the Black and Hispanic shares of 2020 general registered voters
- both the Black and Hispanic shares of the 2020 Dem primary electorate
- both the Black and Hispanic shares of the 2018 Dem primary electorate
- the Hispanic share of registered Democrats at the 2020 general

The Black share of 2020 general registered Dems remains essentially the same, going from 48.3% to 48.1%. Recent statewide general election results in SD 19 are comparable to the benchmark.

I did not use political, elections, or registration data in developing this plan, with the exception of the above-mentioned statistics for SD 19 in the benchmark plan 8010, and my plan, to ensure my SD 19 didn’t retrogress. I did not draw this plan with the intent to favor or disfavor any political party, incumbent, or potential candidate.

I respectfully submit this plan for your consideration. It can be plugged into any of the staff maps drawn thus far.

CERTIFICATE OF REPORTER

STATE OF KENTUCKY
COUNTY OF NELSON

I, SANDRA VENTURA, do hereby certify that I was authorized to and did stenographically report the foregoing deposition of BEN DIAMOND, pages 1 through 106; that a review of the transcript was requested; and that the transcript is a true record of my stenographic notes.

I FURTHER CERTIFY that I am not a relative, employee, attorney, or counsel of any of the parties, nor am I a relative or employee of any of the parties' attorney or counsel connected with the action, nor am I financially interested in the action.

Dated this 13th day of April, 2023.

SANDRA VENTURA

Context note – I have known Rep Allison Tant since late 2012 and have become a friend and political confidant. I have also known Rep Ramon Alexander since 2016.

October Meeting

In October of 2021, I had a meeting at the Florida House with Allison Tant, Ramon Alexander, and a handful of staffers. The meeting was to discuss possible redistricting outcomes for the region, as population slow-downs meant the districts were under-populated. The meeting largely amounted to try to predict how districts may change. I presented some draft maps, but as best I can find, I don't think I had a dedicated PowerPoint presentation for this. Most discussion revolved around the limited changes that could happen to HD8 (Ramon's district) due to it being a protected minority-performing seat. HD9 would likely need to expand to Jefferson and maybe Madison, while HD7 would have to expand as well.

January

In January of 2022, in reaction to the State House draft that split Tallahassee 3 ways, Allison Tant and I had at least a couple phone calls over the issue. While this obviously mattered to Allison in terms of her re-election prospects, this also was a big story around town, as many local officials not running for state house were angered by the drafts. During this time, I sent Tant staffer a dropbox link for some proposed district lines for HD7, HD8, HD9. This was a plan I'd been posting about online, which kept HD8 and HD9 more compact around Tallahassee while maintaining HD8's status as a minority-performing seat. I believe the plan was that an alternative draft map might be submitted by the Rep, but what came of that is unclear to me. I don't believe I ever followed up on it. Since members were allowed to submit plans with the disclosed help of a consultant, I did not view this as an inappropriate action. Clearly no plan was ever actually submitted, likely due to the final draft the house went with not being the 3-way split. But I cannot be sure.

Discussion to hold a townhall about the matter was mentioned, but nothing appeared to come of it. The timeline here is very hectic, but at some point as it became less likely the draft with the 3-way split would be used, things calmed down.

Post Maps

From February through March, after a state house plan had been passed, I had communication with Rep Tant about doing an analysis of her new district. This was in my role as a long-time friend and political consultant. I had done breakdowns of her 2020 race, and she was essentially looking for me to produce a detailed breakdown of her new seat. I believe Supreme Court review was still ongoing of the maps, but the belief was the legislative maps were going to be approved. So we were moving forward with election prep.

Yoo. I promise not to bug you to death lol, but just curious if any word came yesterday on redistricting meeting from Dan. I guess special session will end today, and it turns out tomorrow I'm off work cause of county holiday. So my freedom for meetings is greater than I thought.

He's meeting christian today so was going to remind him right before that so he doesn't forget Sweet. Thank you! On one hand I hate constantly "annoyingly" checking in but I'm def in "we must plot out the defense for the fall cause the GOP is gonna ram shit through wherever they can". So trying to balance being diligent without just annoying the piss out of people. Ha.

No no - not annoying. Just limited time to bring up more things to him. I try to gauge his mood lol Liked "No no - not annoying. Just limited time to bring up more things to him. I try to gauge his mood lol" Lol right on. I really appreciate it!

And yeah obv he and Christian and you all have multiple issues to deal with. My mind is almost entirely redistricting focused now. Which for my work makes sense. But Dan obviously has a lot of other things to focus on as well.

5/19/21, 6:04 PM

Yesterday 8:53 AM

Hey guys. If you all want to get together in person this week let me know.

Oh FYI. If folks are not bolting town tonight. I completely spaced until today that our office is closed tomorrow due to county holiday. So if an in-person meeting is still in cards I'm free any point tomorrow. |

Need Advice. Should I ping them with this text. Is it showing initiative or just being annoying 😅?

Ive been sitting in his office in a meeting waiting to ask him

Feel free to send that though lol

Lol right on. I'm gonna send. Feel free to ask him as well too lol.

Ah sweet I think I'm meeting them at Liberty a little later. Just waiting to hear back on a time.

i'm here lol

idk if christian is coming but either way

Ah right on. I'll head over now then.

Hey Jena. I was just curious about something and wondering if you might have some insight. So I'm working on this first set of redistricting articles for June. And I'm working on timing out when I need it done by for you guys. Is there any word on when the first redistricting push will happen this month? I want to make sure to have things ready for when Dan wants to push them out. I don't even need a hard date but just more of a mid month vs late month range.

I think we could push back

Just because Dan and Christian have been non-responsive

Yeah originally I had floated mid month but that's next week already.

7/14/21, 4:18 PM

Want to get on a call Monday to go over all this ^^

We are free 1pm - 4pm

Cool! Let's do 1pm. I can take a late lunch

Well timed too I actually just out of the TCC library. Spent an hour taking photos and notes on this awesome resource book.

7/19/21, 4:55 PM

Hey Jena. I see the w9. I'll get the June invoice out shortly. Do you guys need me routing and account number?

Wiring info is fine

Ok cool just sent over

7/20/21, 10:03 AM

Oh and if you can, so me a favor and let me know when the wire transfer goes through. I've had issues before with wires so if there comes a point where I should see it but it's not there, I'll know to reach out to my bank.

Yes will do - I should be getting added to the bank today!

8/24/21, 10:30 AM

Hey Jena. Ok for this week I, I am crunched a bit because of St Pete mayor work I'm doing. I should have article finished Wednesday night. But realistically might be best to aim for a Friday email from POP.

Thats ok

That usually works better for me too

Also think Dixon is going to include us in a write up on redistricting!

Nice!!!!!!

8/25/21, 10:34 AM

My quest to get precinct data for every county for a 2010 fair districts map is hitting a snag in several rural counties because of stuff like this

8/26/21, 9:32 AM

hey Jena. I finished the article late last night. I'm gonna run an edit check tonight and send over the email highlights.

If I get everything to you early this evening. Will that be ok?

Thats perfect yes!

It doesn't take me long to rework it for email

Cool!

Also how do they only have that shit on floppy can someone buy them some computers!!!!

I'll never forget in 2014 and interning at the party - calling glades about some precinct maps, and the then-elections supervisor said they only had two precincts (they had 8)

Gotta be the same person who stored stuff on a floppy

8/26/21, 8:52 PM

I'll have they email shortly got it thank you!

It will be a bit late tonight but you will have for morning!

9/2/21, 3:27 PM

So glad this is labor day weekend coming up. I need an extra day to write

Will fair districts email be tomorrow or today? Just don't wanna jump gun on Twitter.

Probably tomorrow

Sweeeetttttt!!!!

God I love the precinct maps. Mostly cause they were such a pain in the ass to make. But the creation is fun

9/8/21, 1:18 PM

Do you know anything about school board redistricting? Like the elected seats. Sean wants to do an op-ed and I can't even figure out who draws the maps lol

Lol. Yeah not as talked about as much. By and large I believe school boards do it themselves, county by county rules may and likely apply. I know many counties aim to make commission and school boarders the same. Others dont. And districts can also factor in student numbers and so traditional population metrics may not be the only took. I'll need to dig around on if there is statewide standards. But if this is about Hillsborough specific I can probably find out details.

9/8/21, 6:39 PM

Oh and I'll have the latest article wrapped up tonight.

9/9/21, 12:27 PM

Sent over the latest article info last night!

9/9/21, 1:28 PM

I'm guessing tomorrow is likey drop date for that piece.

Yes for sure

Sweet

9/10/21, 1:20 PM

Yooo. Is today still plan for releasing the article?

Yes yes about to send the draft email to the group 😊 sorry got delayed today

Sweet and no worries! Just wanted to check. I'm halfway through the 2015 article. That will wrap up history. Then we can jump to regional looks. Which is gonna time well for the 2020 now being available. Already been in software working on regional maps.

9/10/21, 3:26 PM

Ok so why was sd19 able to stay crossing the bay and not FL-14

I'll get into this with next week. But in 2015 the data was up on the air on if 19 could be a true black seat just in Tampa. 14th congress could never be a real minority seat. So crossing the bay never was justifiable.

But 19 was a black seat by crossing the bay. So it was broadly ok. Now I argued in 2015 that the 2012/2014 primary data showed a demographic shift in voting. But the GOP used 2008/2010 primary data to say crossing the bay was needed to have over 50% Dem primary.

Now the current data shows 19 could be just in Tampa. But they could very likely keep crossing the bay

I mean tbh - Rouson's people know SD-19 isn't a true black seat either

I've just been fiddling with some numbers myself re: FL-13 and I just don't think they can really screw us the way they think

Well what 19 is - is it's 50%+ black in a Dem primary. So it performs as a black seat. It has a strong historic record

The issue for the GOP was the 14th congressional never performed as a minority seat

They'd claim the 14th was "coalition" but the data and voting never backed that up.

So yeah with congress I don't think they can cross the bay.

But I bet they do cross the bay for senate.

Or if they don't. They will try and grab Hispanics in Cruz's seat and fuck her over Bottom life. If they feel they must allow a Dem seat in South Pinellas. They will try and take the 18th back

Bottom line*

Got it. I think all of this is ok with me.

Tbh all of us and Janet aren't on great terms so I just 😏 I just worry about FL-13

Very helpful though thank you.

Word on the street tho is Bilirakis wants to drop Palm Harbor

Laughed at "Tbh all of us and Janet aren't on great terms so I just 😏 I just worry about FL-13"

Ugh I'd rather he keep it. He's only losing major Pinellas chunks if 14 crosses bay. But I just don't think they can justify it. Unless they opt to just barrel ahead and risk it in court.

you know.... the Florida way

Cool

9/23/21, 4:08 PM

Guessing we are more line for tomorrow. Which is cool. I'm gonna make tomorrow substack a listing of all articles and a general news of the week while teasing the future plans for regional articles.

Then next week's article will be a modern state of play. And then week after begins the regional tour of redistricting in key areas yeah lost control of the day but sounds good

I know that well. I lose track of weeks

9/24/21, 4:01 PM

Scheduling social for this evening - doesn't matter if it goes out in email first Cool! I'll push on social after work.

9/29/21, 2:29 PM

Heya. I'll have this weeks article - a "state of play" ready by tomorrow. So likely a Friday release. I got my booster shot on weekend. Which is great. But it slowed my writing for a couple days.

Then next week begins the regional looks at possible maps.

And this substack is a tie into this weeks article. I dug into the supreme Court Hey Jena. Since the preview article is emailing out this week. Do we want to hold off on the regional tour starting next week then?

yeah i think that's ok

sorry it's taking a while for approval

No that's totally ok. A week gap would be good anyway. I can slow down and give the tour articles more time to write up.

Just messaged you and Dan both a schedule idea

10/10/21, 11:14 AM

I've got the first tour article just about ready to go. Should have sent to you tonight or tomorrow.

awesome thanks! excited to start the next leg of this — i think people actually are enjoying the emails lol

i dropped a petition at the bottom of the last email to see how many people are reading until the end and was surprised by the response

Awesome! Yeah I am loving this series. And now in fantasy redistricting - I could do that all day lol. Honestly the writing is the most labor intensive parts. Fantasy mapping is just fun lol.

do you have a login to dave wasserman's site? i really want to read that write up that got posted friday lol

I don't. But I can likely get the text. I saw his maps and I was honestly just puzzled. I understand he's got 50 states to cover. But those maps looks like he made them in 10 minutes. I can map out aggressive gerrymanders that look so much cleaner.

FI-13 going to manatee made no sense. At all.

yes emailed and posted!

Awesome! I've already started on the Orlando house. There is some great details there because holy shit the growth. Realistically we should net a couple seats there. If we don't. It's gerrymandering.

10/15/21, 10:39 AM

Ok Orlando house article should be ready by Monday or Monday night. Great narrative there. Dems should gains but will GOP try to crack Hispanics to stop it.
Oh and shot over September invoice in email.

Lol am I fucking it up? It's fair districts?

5/23/2021 11:17 PM

5/23/2021 11:18 PM

VRA §2 protects from vote dilution, and to prove a dilution claim you must show you can draw a majority-minority district

5/23/2021 11:18 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Ok so the question. Can that fair districts provision be taken to federal court? Or will Florida court decide on retrogression?

5/23/2021 11:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

no, you cannot sue a state in federal court for a violation fo state law

5/23/2021 11:19 PM

5/23/2021 11:35 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

5/23/2021 11:35 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yep

5/23/2021 11:35 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it will be difficult to justify legally tho

5/23/2021 11:37 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

in general, given a favorable state judiciary, the pickle they'll find themselves in is this: they will justify certain configurations based on VRA/FDA racial concerns (just like last time). And just like last time, that will be pretext for partisan gerrymandering. The state courts won't care, but you can still bring a federal racial gerrymandering claim – that race predominated in the drawing of a district, and the leg didn't have a justification for race predominating

5/23/2021 11:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

if there's an actual $2 or $5 issue that would justify their districts, they'll be fine. But if racial concerns are truly pretextual, they won't be able to defend. In other states (like NC) you can say "it was a partisan gerrymander, not a racial gerrymander." But you obviously can't admit that in FL given FDA.

5/23/2021 11:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And that's how you'd win a federal racial gerrymandering claim to undo some of this

5/23/2021 11:50 PM

one thing about retrogression and remedies: if the Leg decides to eliminate a §5-protected district, but one where there's no §2 right, and the state courts let them

5/23/2021 11:50 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

there is no likely federal remedy

5/23/2021 11:51 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the thing about all of this: there is very little incentive to shake up the status quo in ANY of these 3 maps

5/23/2021 11:51 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they are winning, and will keep winning! they won, at worst, a 23-17 majority in a senate map drawn in John O'Neill's Los Angeles apartment!

5/23/2021 11:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

esp. in the senate map, where population shifts mean the northernmost Palm Beach district will take in Martin and become deep red. they'll naturally gain a seat out of that

5/23/2021 11:53 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

that is incredibly true - and is a pretty common convo going on here

5/23/2021 11:54 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

the FL GOP doesn't feel pressure because they win

5/23/2021 11:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

so between SD30, and SD8 naturally getting dismantled, and praying on the 3 Dade districts... there's really not much need to change anything

5/23/2021 11:54 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

their arrogance is amazing. of course it also makes me nervous about what they do, but they also are very confident in themselves

ohhhh right!

5/23/2021 11:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

but there's a decent way to have 3 vertically-oriented districts that separate all 3 of them

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

(Hutson being the 3rd)

5/23/2021 11:55 PM

5/24/2021 12:04 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

on SD9, it's tough bc the Orlando area is growing faster than the state - those 4 SDs have to shrink

5/24/2021 12:04 AM

5/24/2021 12:06 AM

5/24/2021 12:10 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

me neither

5/24/2021 8:38 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Another legal point for you: it's an open question whether the VRA §2 recognizes a right for "coalition" districts where it's impossible to draw a 50+1% CVAP district of a single minority group. The 11th Circuit did recognize coalitional §2 claims in a 1990 case (involving Hardee actually), but SCOTUS hasn't ruled on it

5/24/2021 8:39 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

As you know, this doesn't really matter for retrogression – CD5, CD10, SD19, HD117, etc. all protected from retrogression under the §5 standard in FDA.

5/24/2021 8:41 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But they're protected because a single minority group has some level of ability to elect candidates of choice (usually because majority of Dem primary + Dem general), not because two different groups can combine to elect a candidate of choice

5/24/2021 8:50 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Correction: it's not really an open question whether the VRA recognizes coalition claims. SCOTUS basically said no in Bartlett v. Strickland in 2008 and again in Perez v. United States in 2012, and the FL Supreme Court cited both in 2012

5/24/2021 8:51 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

So yeah no §2 right against vote dilution (under actual VRA or FDA) unless you can draw a geographically compact 50% +1 CVAP district of a single minority group

5/24/2021 8:52 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And no FDA right against retrogression (§5 analog) unless a single minority group has SOME ability to elect candidates of choice - even if it's not a guaranteed ability (like HD26 being a 3/5 Black district this decade)

5/24/2021 8:53 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And FOR THE LOVE OF GOD please note that even tho you have to show you can draw a 50% +1 district to PROVE a vote dilution claim, the REMEDY doesn't have to be 50% +1 – it only has to be minority enough to elect a minority candidate of choice. Which as you know could be much lower!

like.. read the constitution before you amend it

5/25/2021 10:57 PM

wow I didn't even notice – their initiative doesn't even strike the language in the constitution that says the BOE appoints the commissioner. So their amendment would leave 2 conflicting methods of selection for them to go ahead with the rushed campaign launch today after they KNEW they fucked up...

5/25/2021 10:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

5/25/2021 10:59 PM

6/3/2021 10:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm sure NCSL has some good overviews of the federal law. The All About Redistricting site does too. I'll look tmr am I right about this take? House District 20, since its only 30% black now, has no real legal protection. like they dont have to keep linking the black pop of gains and ocala. does a district like the 20th (where its not maj or plurality minority but has a history as a access seat - have any possible protection?

6/6/2021 10:42 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

6/6/2021 10:42 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No

6/6/2021 10:42 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No you're not right

6/6/2021 10:43 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

ok please explain lol

6/6/2021 10:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It is possibly protected from retrogression/diminishment of Black voters' ability to elect reps of choice

6/6/2021 10:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

under FDA's §5 standard

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

here is why i was wondering, because depending on turnout, black voters dont even guarantee to make up the largest vote in a primary

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The question is whether Black voters have some ability to elect candidates of choice in the benchmark district

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

<https://mcimaps.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/07/House-20-Margin-2048x1583.png>
<https://t.co/muBtUsIYKX>

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so is it too low? or is the results before us enough? (aka multiple black reps)

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

If so, then their ability-to-elect cannot be diminished

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

An ability to elect doesn't have to be 100% or guaranteed

6/6/2021 10:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Nor does it depend on the color of skin of the candidates getting elected

6/6/2021 10:46 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

ok. so the potential is at least theoretically there now, even if its not a lock (like the 5th congress being 60%+ black in dem primary)

6/6/2021 10:46 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so since its possible its potentially protected

6/6/2021 10:46 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

However, that is obviously relevant, especially here where I'm sure a precinct regression of primary and general elx results would show that Hinson and Watson had robust support from overwhelming majority of Black voters

6/6/2021 10:47 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Especially with crossover support from white voters in both primary & general

6/6/2021 10:48 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i gotcha. yeah i mean you could easily argue the 20th does give minority voters a chance to elect a member of their chosing. so it is a functional access seat. ok so its possible protected via regression. BUT if the current 20th didnt exist as an access, there would be no mandate to draw it now, right? this is more about the issue of going backward.

6/6/2021 10:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

interesting there hasn't been a contested primary since Watson came in in 2021

6/6/2021 10:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

2012*

6/6/2021 10:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Correct!

6/6/2021 10:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

this is about not going backward

6/6/2021 10:49 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

no right to go forward (under vote dilution claim/$2 of VRA and its FDA analog), because you can't draw a majority BVAP district

6/6/2021 10:49 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

okkkk thats right! i do remember this convo from months back but damn account nuking deleted all that.

6/6/2021 10:49 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yep so same thing with HD 26 except there you're looking more at the general than the primary as well

6/6/2021 10:50 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

if HD 26 is like a 2-out-of-5 or 3-out-of-5 Black ability-to-elect seat, it has to stay that way yeah that one is def right on the edge. especially after it was held by the GOP last year. I feel if the GOP totally nukes it they prob get away with it under this court. because its less clear at this point.

6/6/2021 10:51 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

6/6/2021 10:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah probably, but I can't remember where all the Volusia incumbents live

6/6/2021 10:52 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i know this for sure, the 21st is gonna get made more steady R. i dont see how they dont try and sure that up.

6/6/2021 10:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

They may argue there is no longer any Black ability-to-elect in the benchmark (or it's negligible)

6/6/2021 10:53 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i could def see them making that argument. and frankly for dems they have better arguments to make elsewhere.

6/6/2021 10:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah I think there was probably a feeling 10 years ago that if they made HD 20 Alachua-only, they would make an Ocala-based seat too competitive

6/6/2021 10:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No longer an issue obviously

6/6/2021 10:54 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

mmmhmmm. plenty of room to play with moving lines around to make the 20th the only real dem seat in the area

6/6/2021 10:54 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

granted not like dems ever managed to secure the 21st anyway

6/6/2021 10:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Although on HD26, a 53-47 margin in 2020 is really not that big

6/6/2021 10:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yeah that's why I don't think there will be much disruption on any map... they don't need to

6/6/2021 10:55 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

true about 26

6/6/2021 10:56 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

yeah they already gotta feel pretty confident. can just focus on suring up a couple seats like 21st or 15th, but hell they dont have to go crazy at all

6/6/2021 10:56 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

For more on the $5/retrogression standard read Apportionment I starting at "As Congress explained, the new "Section 5[w]as intended to be specifically focused

6/6/2021 10:56 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

https://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=16181620808462977000
<https://t.co/P2GbdqGYxh>

6/6/2021 10:57 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"[r]otating changes that leave a minority group less able to elect a preferred candidate of choice, either directly or when coalesced with other voters, cannot be precleared under Section 5"

6/6/2021 10:57 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"the Legislature cannot eliminate majority-minority districts or weaken other historically performing minority districts where doing so would actually diminish a minority group's ability to elect its preferred candidates. In other words, in addition to majority-minority districts, coalition or crossover districts that previously provided minority groups with the ability to elect a preferred candidate under the benchmark plan must also be recognized."

6/6/2021 10:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

BUT "a slight change in percentage of the minority group's population in a given district does not necessarily have a cognizable effect on a minority group's ability to elect its preferred candidate of choice. This is because a minority group's ability to elect a candidate of choice depends upon more than just population figures."

284
6/6/2021 11:00 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

that line about the slight change is spot on, cause man some folks get so obsessed with small % changes. 45% vs 46% and so on. as if you move things by 0.5% the dynamic just drastically changes

6/6/2021 11:01 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yup. very dumb. that's what dismantling CD5 was all about!!

6/6/2021 11:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and btw, in the analysis of why reorienting CD5 east-west didn't retrogress, the court made clear that there was no evidence that going from 48% to 45% BVAP would diminish - in that district (since might be different given more racial polarization)

6/6/2021 11:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

They also looked to the 1996 district that was at 42.7%!

6/6/2021 11:04 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL) exactly! i remember this fight sooo well

6/6/2021 11:05 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

that was such an intense debate.

6/6/2021 11:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

tho it is crazy how narrow Corrine's first elx were

6/6/2021 11:05 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

and then at diff points you had some lawmakers, including montford, proposing an east-west 5 snake down to gainesville or ocala as well - to grab more voters -- all obsessed with boosting that black VAP a little higher

6/6/2021 11:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

a notable legal thing there tho was that the Legislature had the burden to prove their configuration was necessary to comply with the retrogression standard

6/6/2021 11:05 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

in exchange for the FL-5 having weird tentacles snaking around

6/6/2021 11:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

that was unusual, and only because of the finding that the whole map was tainted with partisan intent

6/6/2021 11:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

usually, it's the minority group that's suing and has the burden to prove that the Legislature's map retrogresses

6/6/2021 11:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and once you start going waaay out of your way to draw a district oriented toward hitting a numerical target, you run into another legal problem: racial gerrymandering, i.e. race predominating in drawing the district without a compelling justification (like complying with the VRA)

6/6/2021 11:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it's unclear whether complying with FDA's retrogression standard would be a compelling justification for having race predominate in the drawing of a district

6/6/2021 11:09 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

my guess is this SCOTUS would probably say no

6/6/2021 11:10 PM

yeah it can be tricky, you can go to far. and alot of people do that. but i get what your saying

6/6/2021 11:11 PM

setting % targets without much inquiry is definitely bad tho

6/6/2021 11:11 PM

it's funny, I'm now remembering that last year Dan Newman asked me to come up with a list with all the districts that were "protected" by the VRA/FDA

6/6/2021 11:12 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

for arguments against Amendment 3

6/6/2021 11:12 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yes well everyone is dumb on that

6/6/2021 11:13 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

this is part of what I told him:

6/6/2021 11:13 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

So – the retrogression requirement doesn't really have a concept of particular "access seats." Minorities' ability to elect candidates of choice (assuming minority voters vote cohesively) is protected from diminishment in every district, statewide. Also, the law thinks in terms of likelihood – so a district that has a 90% chance of electing a black candidate of choice (which could have a 30% or 50% or 70% black population depending on other circumstances) can't drop below around 90% chance. Same with 50% chance. Etc.

But there are obviously districts where black voters have a very high ability to elect candidates of choice. Those would be all the ones you list (maybe not HD 20), plus HDs 8, 14, 46, 94, 95, 102, 107, and 108. (The Haitian districts might be tricky if there's not much Haitian/African-American cohesion, I'm not sure.)

I'd add that HDs 26 and 84 have been like 40-60% chance districts for electing black candidates of choice this past decade.

6/6/2021 11:14 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

He shared his primary data and Black share of Dem primary increased across the board since ten years ago, which I guess is bc of Dixiecrats leaving

6/6/2021 11:14 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

omg Haitian v African-American dynamics is def a unique scenario down south.

6/6/2021 11:14 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

yes it has! at least in many areas

6/6/2021 11:14 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yes! and legally irrelevant!

6/6/2021 11:15 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

well it's legally relevant if the Black voters overall aren't cohesive

6/6/2021 11:15 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

if that's the case, then there's no VRA/FDA protection AT ALL

6/6/2021 11:15 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

but at least under current law, you can't look at just "Haitian Americans" or just "African Americans"

6/6/2021 11:16 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

you have to lump them together and analyze their voting behavior as a big racial group

6/6/2021 11:17 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

yeah and that can def be where looking at past votings and primaries comes in. also thinking things like SD-38 where youve got haitian vs black vs white vs hispanic (who also have terrible primary turnout) - northeast dade can get realllllyyyy messy

6/6/2021 11:17 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

exactly

6/6/2021 11:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

tho I doubt anyone will argue there isn't cohesion amongst Carib/Af-Am, since they all vote together in the general

6/6/2021 11:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and that's probably the more legally sound view

287
6/6/2021 11:19 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it's just like if there were Gadsden Dems and Leon Dems voting at odds in the HD8 primary. You wouldn't argue that Black voters in HD8 were noncohesive just bc of htat

6/6/2021 11:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and as I said, at least for now, the categories "Caribbean Americans" and "African Americans" have just as much legal relevance as "Gadsden Black voters" and "Leon Black voters"

6/6/2021 11:24 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

yeah and that makes sense because we do see united voting in generals. totally get it

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

here is a question. so from my understanding, the jax-based african-american state senate district is protected from retrogression via fair districts (and not like we expect the gop to destroy it anyway) - but hypothetically, since its not majority-black, its not VRA protected, right? or since its demonstrated its long trend of black wins, is it protected under any federal principle.

i'm trying to confirm some conflicting info on federal courts looking more at the "functional analysis" stuff. like lets just say, in theory, the jax district was blown up and fair districts didnt exist, would there be any recourse in the federal courts?

6/13/2021 6:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

You're correct it's protected from retrogression by FDA. It would only be protected from dilution under FDA and VRA if you can draw a majority BCVAP district that's relatively geographically "compact". And can't you?

6/13/2021 6:49 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I thought the original 2012 district was struck down in Apportionment I specifically because the Coalition's alternative was a majority BCVAP district wholly within Jax

6/13/2021 6:51 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

you might be able to go 50%+ black but it probably wouldn't look great. its interesting because their original 2012 plan that they sent to supreme court review continued the whole deal where it went from jax down to daytona. but after the fl court knixed that map, (which was really about the panhandle coast district and the bogdanoff district) they changed it to the jax only seat. then in 2015 they re-drew it but the nature of it remained the same

6/13/2021 6:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The court found the Daytona district facially invalid too

6/13/2021 6:53 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

ahhhh i missed that part

6/13/2021 6:54 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

yeah because THIS nightmare still wasn't 50%+ black it only got to around 47%, and that was with all the nonsense. so the notion of "hey you can do jax only and its only a few % less black but still functionally a black seat" made sense.

6/13/2021 7:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Right

6/13/2021 7:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The FDP and the Coalition challenge District 6 on the grounds that the Senate used Florida's minority voting protection provision as a pretext for partisan favoritism and violated the requirements of compactness and utilizing political and geographical boundaries. Based on the objective data before this Court, we conclude that District 6 violates constitutional mandates by sacrificing compactness and utilizing boundaries when not necessary to do so to avoid conflict with the minority voting protection provision.

<https://t.co/M0Uai0WbAo>

6/13/2021 7:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The stated justification for the configuration of District 6 is minority voting protection. As we have explained previously, because the Senate never performed an appropriate functional analysis, the reliability of this justification is questionable. District 6 is a black opportunity district, with a black VAP of 47.7%. District 6 is not a majority-minority district, and neither was its predecessor in the benchmark '667 Senate plan. The benchmark district, old District 1, had a black VAP of 46.9%. In short, this is not a district where the Senate's goal was to create a majority-minority district.

Attachment with type image/jpeg
<https://t.co/wLDSolPHNb>

6/13/2021 7:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The Legislature formed this district with the stated intent to preserve minority voting opportunities. The Legislature stated that it intended to "tie[] communities of similar socioeconomic characteristics in the northeastern portion of the state from the St. Johns River basin to Interstate 95 between Daytona Beach and Jacksonville, consistent with traditional, race-neutral redistricting principles" and to create a district with "a near majority black voting-age population, comparable to that of the existing district." SJR 1176 at 39.^[48] District 6 retains 70.3% of its predecessor district (old District 1). However, as discussed above, the Senate in drawing this district did not perform a functional analysis, but rather focused on keeping the core of old District 1. Old District 1, however, was drawn at a time when compactness was not a constitutional imperative. Because compactness is now a requirement, the Legislature is permitted to violate compactness only when necessary to avoid conflict with tier-one standards, including the minority voting protection provision.

<https://t.co/H6HGpFFn70>

6/13/2021 7:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Coalition District 1 has a black VAP of 42.4%. While we recognize that this is lower than the black VAP of the benchmark District 1 (which has a black VAP of 46.9%), our inquiry does not end there. An examination of voting strength must be conducted. The equivalent district under the Coalition's alternative plan would perform Democratic; it would have voted 57.3% for Sink (D) in the 2010 gubernatorial election, 61.0% for Obama (D) in the 2008 presidential election, and 49.1% for Davis (D) in the 2006 gubernatorial election. Democrats would make up 56.1% of registered voters, and 66.4% of the registered Democrats would be black (showing opportunity for black voters among Democrats). Further, 86.8% of the black voters would be registered Democrats (showing voting cohesion among black voters in general). As to the registered voters who actually voted in the 2010 general election, the numbers would be quite similar: Democrats would make up 55.8% of registered voters, 65.8% of the Democrats would be black, and 91.6% of the black voters would be Democrats. Black voters would have also controlled the Democratic primary, with 64.3% of the Democrats voting in the primary being black. This analysis indicates that the district will likely afford black voters the ability to elect candidates of their choice.^[49]

^[669] Thus, the Coalition has demonstrated that District 6 can be drawn much more compactly and remain a minority-opportunity district. In addition to being much

<https://t.co/0kkXchU8WF>

6/13/2021 7:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But it may be possible to draw a majority BCVP district now. Keep in mind that "geographical compactness" under Gingles/VRA section 2 is not the same as "compactness" under FDA or what you or I would think of as compact. It's more lenient

6/13/2021 7:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

If so, that would be a way to get into federal court

6/13/2021 7:56 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Also keep in mind that the majority BCVP district is only needed to prove your Section 2/ vote dilution claim. The remedy can be lower than that, as long as it's enough to elect a Black candidate or choice

6/13/2021 7:57 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Which is why, for example, SD33 isn't majority Black even tho you can draw a majority BCVP district down in Browars

6/13/2021 8:00 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so this brings up an interesting question. if you can get to say 48% black, but cant reach 50%, are there any protections under federal court? to me it feels like getting to 48%, showing voter cohesion, and even including gingles where the maj population is willing to vote for a minority candidate, would destroying the current SD6 violate federal dillution laws? even if 50%+1 was (theoretically) impossible.

we've talked about 50% not being a magic number. but is it under VRA for protection?

6/13/2021 8:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No, to prove a vote dilution claim under VRA sec 2, you must be able to draw a geographically compact district with majority CVAP

6/13/2021 8:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But maybe you could get to maj BCVAP by going to Daytona, and maybe a federal court would find that was compact under Gingles man that would be like a big update to the VRA to add. give some wiggle room.

6/13/2021 8:04 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

6/13/2021 8:04 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL) cause to me a 47% black seat in jax only is worthy of protection (under federal law)

6/13/2021 8:19 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

There are pretty good theoretical underpinnings to the majority requirement but there are arguments against it too obviously

6/13/2021 8:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Congress overturned the SCOTUS ruling in Georgia v. Ashcroft (on what retrogression is) when they renewed the VRA in 2006, they could explicitly protect coalition districts when they renew it again

6/13/2021 8:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Congress also overturned another bad SCOTUS ruling on Section 2 (Mobile v. Bolden) when it passed the VRA Amendments in 1982, which is how we got the Gingles test in the first place

6/13/2021 8:40 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And of course if the John Lewis Voting Rights Act (HR 4) is passed, all of Florida will be under DOJ preclearance for retrogression and SD6 would be protected federally

- > April 1962 - Baker v Carr - The US Supreme Court ruled that issues of apportionment and redistricting could be in the purview of the courts (was in relation to lawsuits over equal population of districts - decision gave clear indicator the courts would get involved in malapportionment cases).
- > July 1962 - A 3-judge federal court invalidated the legislatures apportionment plan. Legislature met in special session and put a new plan before the voters. The amendment, which did not fix the malapportionment issue, was rejected by voters 45%-55%.
- > February/March 1963 - With the 1962 midterm results thrown out by a court, a special election for the legislature under a new plan. While the Senate could still be elected by just 14%, the house now required 27% of the population to elect a majority. This was "better" but still malapportioned. The elections saw more urban members elected, but the plan would be struck down.
- > June 1964 - Reynolds v Sims - Court set up the "one person, one vote" principle and ruled against geographic redistricting (vs population).
- > June 1964 - Swann v Adams. US Supreme Court struck down the legislative plan for violating "one person, one vote."
- > November 1964 - Voters reject an amendment that reflected the legislative plan already tossed out by the court. Measure failed 35%-65%.
- > June 1965 - Legislature passed another plan, ahead of a July deadline from the Court. Plan did represent a massive improvement. Majorities of both chambers now needed at least 40% to win control.
- > February 1966 - Swann v Adams (2). US Supreme Court invalidated latest plan for not adhering to "one person, one vote."
- > March 1966 - Legislature passed another redistricting plan, this one means 47% of vote needed to win majority of both chambers.
- > January 1967 - Swann v Adams (3). US Supreme Court strikes down the latest plan. Invalidates the 1966 midterm legislative results. Court orders the lower court panel to pick a new plan themselves.
- > February 1967 - District court announces its new plan, drawn by UF Political Science Professor Manning Daurer. Special elections scheduled for late February and March.

Jan. 29 – Governor request advisory opinion of Florida Supreme Court, asking if the Legislature can pass a redistricting plan notwithstanding state constitutional limitations.

Jan. 31, 1963 – Florida Supreme Court unanimously ruled in advisory opinion that the Legislature could reapportion by statute, notwithstanding state constitutional limitations. (In re Advisory Opinion to the Governor, 150 So. 2d 721)

Feb. 1, 1963 – Legislature passes SB 1-X(63) provides for new legislators and special elections to elect them. (Sen. passed on Jan. 29; Gov signs on Feb. 4).

Feb. 7 – S.D. Fla. approves SB 1-X and dismisses the cases. (Sobel v. Adams, 214 F. Supp. 811)

Mar. 26, 1963 elections | 1963 plan (SB 1-X)

June 22 – U.S. Supreme Court reverses and remands per its opinion seven days prior in Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533 (June 15). (Swann v. Adams, 378 U.S. 553)

District Court deferred action until the legislative session which convened April 6, 1965, stating it would reconsider its decisions should the Legislature fail to pass a valid reapportionment by July 1, 1965.

1964 elections | 1963 plan

June 29, 1965 – Legislature passes reapportionment plan. (HB 19-XX)

July 6 – plaintiffs file joint petition asking S.D. Fla. to declare it invalid; they propose an alternative plan.

Dec. 23 – District Court finds HB 19-XX invalid, but approved it with minor changes (striking down holdover senators whose districts would be abolished) on an interim basis. Approval was limited to the period ending 60 days after adjournment of the 1967 session. (Swann v. Adams, 258 F.Supp. 819) pharmaceutical products, and civilian aircraft, engines, and parts. President Obama's policy changes, as set forth in regulatory changes made to the CAGR and EAR, included several measures designed to facilitate commercial exports to Cuba:

- U.S. financial institutions are permitted to open correspondent accounts at Cuban financial institutions to facilitate the processing of authorized transactions.
- U.S. private export financing is permitted for all authorized export trade to Cuba, except for agricultural goods exported pursuant to TSRA.
- The definition of the term cash in advance for payment for U.S. exports to Cuba was revised to specify that it means cash before transfer of title. In 2005, OFAC had clarified that payment of cash in advance meant that the payment for the goods had to be received prior to the shipment of the goods from the port at which they were loaded in the United States. The regulatory change means that payment can once again occur before an export shipment is offloaded in Cuba rather than before the shipment leaves a U.S. port.
- Commercial exports to Cuba of certain goods and services to empower Cuba's nascent private sector are authorized, including for certain building materials for private residential construction, goods for use by private-sector Cuban entrepreneurs, and agricultural equipment for small farmers.
- Licenses for certain categories of exports are included under a "general policy of approval." These categories include exports for civil aviation and commercial aircraft safety; telecommunications; U.S. news bureaus; human rights organizations and nongovernmental organizations; environmental protection of U.S. and international air quality, waters, and coastlines; and agricultural inputs (such as insecticides, pesticides, and herbicides) that fall outside the scope of those exports already allowed under TSRA.
- Licenses for exports that will be considered on a case-by-case basis include certain items exported to state-owned enterprises, agencies, and other organizations of the Cuban government that provide goods and services for the use and benefit of the Cuban people. These items include exports for agricultural production, artistic hey i was curious on your thoughts about something. so 1990s redistricting had the Bush DOJ act very aggressive in pushing minority districts in a pretty aggressive matter. but as I look at the 1982 amendments and the Gingles case, I'm not sure that "maximize these districts and draw crazy fucking lines" was so demanded by the DOJ (and FL's whole tampa district thing really comes to mind). was this really a DOJ just trying to do right and maybe going a bit overboard with crazy lines, or was there any nefarious reason.

Link title: Bushmanders and Bullwinkles

Link description: For years Mark Monmonier, "a prose stylist of no mean ability or charm" according to the Washington Post, has delighted readers with his insightful understanding of cartography as an art and technology that is both deceptive and revealing. Now he turns his focus to the story of political cartography and the redrawing of congressional districts. His title Bushmanders and Bullwinkles combines gerrymander with the surname of the president who actively tolerated racial gerrymandering and draws attention to the ridiculously shaped congressional districts that evoke the antlers of the moose who shared the cartoon spotlight with Rocky the Flying Squirrel. Written from the perspective of a cartographer rather than a political scientist, Bushmanders and Bullwinkles examines the political tales maps tell when votes and power are at stake. Monmonier shows how redistricting committees carve out favorable election districts for themselves and their allies; how disgruntled politicians use shape to challenge alleged racial gerrymanders; and how geographic information systems can make reapportionment a controversial process with outrageous products. He also explores controversies over the proper roles of natural boundaries, media maps, census enumeration, and ethnic identity. Raising important questions about Supreme Court decisions in regulating redistricting, Monmonier asks if the focus on form rather than function may be little more than a distraction from larger issues like election reform. Characterized by the same wit and clarity as Monmonier's previous books, Bushmanders and Bullwinkles is essential background for understanding what might prove the most contentious political debate of the new decade.

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I know Strozier and even the public library have several of these books

8/8/2021 10:29 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

My initial impression is that yes, the 1982 amendments were knew and there absolutely were voting rights lawyers/DOJ folks who thought they were doing a good-faith implementation of the amendments

8/8/2021 10:29 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

for the political folks, some of that was definitely motivated reasoning

8/8/2021 10:30 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm sure historians/writers have talked to the people on the inside and have a better understanding of their motivations

8/8/2021 10:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

keep in mind, not only were the '82 amendments new, but there was really no such thing as the 14th Amendment racial gerrymandering claim as we came to know it in the 1990s (Shaw v. Reno, Miller v. Johnson, etc)

8/8/2021 10:33 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and the voting rights/racial justice folks were very opposed to the racial gerrymandering claim as a constraint on VRA implementation

8/8/2021 10:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But also Gingles had come out by then (1986), so the "sufficiently large and geographically compact to constitute a majority in a single-member district" precondition for §2 was already there. That part was more or less 5-4, with the 5 most liberal justices signing on. The 4 more conservatives would have made it even harder to establish §2 liability

8/8/2021 10:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But what exactly "sufficiently large and geographically compact" meant wasn't totally clear obviously

8/8/2021 11:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Back to racial gerrymandering/Shaw v. Reno – it's notable that it was purely ideological, the 5 conservatives (including O'Connor) versus the 4 liberals. Miller v. Johnson was the same

8/8/2021 11:16 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

The Shaw and Miller cases were def conservative rulings, but on the other hand things like the 1992 CD3 were insane. yeah my general take has been the DOJ was just really gung-ho, and I've never found any nefarious political stuff from the DOJ specifically (obv lawmakers was another matter). this week's article covers the 1990s, but I'm actually splitting it up in florida legislative maps and florida congressional maps, because otherwise it would be a 6,000 word article (if not more).

8/8/2021 11:19 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yeah the DOJ very well may have been acting in good faith + motivated reasoning. I'm not sure this is a fun little excerpt from the article draft on the GOP and Black alliance and how the GOP overplayed its hand a bit "Efforts by Republican operatives put them at odds with many African-American politicians. One major blow up happened when Republican operatives funded radio ads on African-American stations where a narrator claimed to be an African-American activists who was attacking the white democratic leadership for its hesitance on minority districts. The NAACP and many black lawmakers were furious at the move."

8/8/2021 11:20 PM

Oh one more thing about the Bush DOJ: I haven't focused much about the history of the §5 standard. But IIRC that never changed between 1965 and Georgia v. Ashcroft (2003) and the 2006 amendments that overturned it. So denying preclearance to, for example, NC because they wouldn't draw 2 maj-B districts - where there hadn't been 2 before, or even 2 ability-to-elect districts of lower BVAP, was waaaaay outside the box. And I don't see how you get there from an honest reading of §5, the DOJ's preclearance practice up to that time, and the (admittedly limited) §5 caselaw

The NAACP objected to the district the court adopted

8/9/2021 9:13 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The NAACP argued that the Humphrey plan, adopted by the majority, goes too far. The NAACP expressed its objection to the Humphrey plan by stating: "This plan's proposed minority district for the Tampa Bay area lacks geographic compactness," and that it "places virtually all black residents in the four-county area into the minority district, thereby substantially diminishing the opportunity for blacks to influence elections in the surrounding districts." Chesterfield Smith expressed a similar concern, stating that establishing "a minority access district along the shores of Tampa Bay [would] 'bleach' minority voters from districts in which they have exercised some influence."

8/9/2021 9:13 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"It is also interesting to note that, while the Justice Department's section 5 preclearance jurisdiction extends only to Hillsborough County, the plan adopted by the majority will have adverse effects on Pinellas, Manatee, and Polk Counties."

8/9/2021 9:14 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"I regret that I cannot concur in the plan adopted by the majority. We have now seemingly interpreted the 1982 amendment to the Voting Rights Act to require districts that can be counted on to elect a minority representative to an exclusion of all other factors. Frankly, I think that the Justice Department is erroneous in its interpretation of the 1982 Voting Rights Act and in rejecting the reapportionment plan previously approved by this Court. Assuming it to be correct, however, we need not go to the extremes we have in correcting the perceived deficiency."

 Committee on Rules, Calendar, and Operations
 Chairman Destin Hall

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

 Contact: Dylan Reel

NC House Adopts Non-Partisan Redistricting Criteria

Raleigh, NC – For the first time in North Carolina history, a legislative committee has adopted redistricting criteria that will not use partisan data.

In addition, the committee opted to use several other traditional, non-partisan redistricting criteria such as seeking to keep municipalities whole, avoiding splitting precincts, and keeping districts compact, in an effort to limit partisan considerations.

Chairman Hall (R-Caldwell) offered the following statement:

“Just like in 2019, the legislature will draw our legislative and congressional districts without partisan data, but this time on our own volition. This process worked well and was endorsed by legislative Democrats in 2019. While the Sue ‘Til Blue liberals like Eric Holder will undoubtedly still sue us, we are committed to an open and transparent process.”

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

To undertake a retrogression evaluation requires an inquiry into whether a district is likely to perform for minority candidates of choice. This has been termed a "functional analysis," requiring consideration not only of the minority population in the districts, or even the minority voting-age population in those districts, but of political data and how a minority population group has voted in the past. The United States Department of Justice (DOJ) has defined what a functional analysis of electoral behavior entails:

In determining whether the ability to elect exists in the benchmark plan and whether it continues in the proposed plan, the Attorney General does not rely on any predetermined or fixed demographic percentages at any point in the assessment. Rather, in the Department's view, this determination requires a functional analysis of the electoral behavior within the particular jurisdiction or election district.... [C]ensus data alone may not provide sufficient indicia of electoral behavior to make the requisite determination. Circumstances, such as differing rates of electoral participation within discrete portions of a population, may impact on the ability of voters to elect candidates of choice, even if the overall demographic data show no significant change.

Although comparison of the census population of districts in the benchmark and proposed plans is the important starting point of any Section 5 analysis, additional demographic and election data "626 in the submission is often helpful in making the requisite Section 5 determination.... Therefore, election history and voting patterns within the jurisdiction, voter registration and turnout information, and other similar information are very important to an assessment of the actual effect of a redistricting plan.

But you judge the benchmark by what it is based on the most recent data

9/5/2021 9:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Not what it was when first enacted

9/5/2021 9:21 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

ooooooooooooooooooooooooohhhh

9/5/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And the senate kept using non-Hispanic Black, but the legally relevant # is ALL Black

9/5/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Anyone who checked "Black" on the form, alone or in combination with any other races

9/5/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

So that # is higher

9/5/2021 9:23 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

ok so here is what confuses me. we say the benchmark is 60% plus, but where does that come from? because the Senate didnt try for it being that high, there district was around 55% black VAP (which was rejected)

9/5/2021 9:25 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

That's from the court's opinion

9/5/2021 9:25 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

We would have gotten that from the house's 2010 all-black data of the 2002 plan

9/5/2021 9:29 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Unquestionably, minority protection was an important factor in considering how to draw District 34 because it is a black majority-minority district with a black VAP of 55.8%. As it travels down the coast, the district takes in the neighborhoods with the highest concentrations of black residents in Broward and Palm Beach Counties. The incumbent for this district is a Democrat. In the benchmark plan, the predecessor to District 34 (old District 29) was also a black majority-minority district, having a black voting-age population of 60.7%.^[24] District 34's shape is similar to the shape it had under the 2002 Senate plan, and the district retains 79.4% of its prior population.

9/5/2021 9:30 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Just accept it lol

9/5/2021 9:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

See how the non-Hispanic Black + Hispanic Black = 55.8% for Plan 9008?

9/5/2021 9:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It's like that

9/5/2021 9:32 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so is the 60.7% basically a "it could have been this high" number

9/5/2021 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Idk what you mean

9/5/2021 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

That's what it was

9/5/2021 9:33 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

see this is where i am lost, i dont see any district being 60.7% black VAP. the 2012 map didnt do that, the 2002 map didnt do that, so how is 60.7% a benchmark, i dont see that number anywhere in any file

9/5/2021 9:35 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

from the senate's brief

9/5/2021 9:44 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

well the senate district for the area had a black 60% vap benchmark. its 2002 district version was 55% black vap. the senate in 2012 tried to continue it as 55% black vap. but then the ordered redraw took it to 48% black vap.

Abstract
The Voting Rights Act protects the ability of racial and language minority groups to elect candidates of choice by prohibiting states and localities from diluting those groups' votes when drawing electoral districts. The Fair Districts provisions of the Florida Constitution include a similar ban on vote dilution, plus further protections against diminishing (retrogressing) existing minority voting strength. A key element of proving vote dilution or retrogression is that the minority group votes cohesively. Historically, minority voting cohesion has often been untested or easily proven in VRA suits. But in South Florida, Hispanic citizens are voting less cohesively than they used to.

This Article investigates the legal issues that arise when the assumption of cohesion unravels. First, this Article investigates to what extent the Hispanic community in South Florida is cohesive. It then proposes several alternative approaches to the vote dilution and retrogression framework to better align doctrine with the real-world conditions of voters and communities.

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

Heyy. Quick follow up. This is a Very basic summary but let me know if this draft paragraph is correct.

9/9/2021 1:42 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

The court examined the issue of retrogression in great detail. As the court pointed out, the Fair Districts Amendments incorporated language from Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act. This language creates the standard against retrogression (aka a reduction in the ability of minority voters to elect candidates of their choosing). This created a universal, state-wide standard protecting minority-performing districts from being eliminated. This meant districts that perform as minority seats, not just those over 50% minority VAP, were protected.

Florida's second imperative, that "districts shall not be drawn . . . to diminish [racial or language minorities'] ability to elect representatives of their choice," art. III, § 21(a), Fla. Const., reflects the statement codified in Section 5 of the VRA prohibiting apportionment plans that have "the purpose or will have the effect of diminishing the ability of any citizens . . . on account of race or color . . . to elect their preferred candidates of choice." 42 U.S.C. § 1973c(b) (2006). Section 5 attempts to eradicate impermissible retrogression in a minority group's ability to elect a candidate of choice. Although Section 5 applies only to "covered jurisdictions," Florida's constitutional prohibition applies to the entire state.

Consistent with the goals of Sections 2 and 5 of the VRA, Florida's corresponding state provision aims at safeguarding the voting strength of minority groups against both impermissible dilution and retrogression. Interpreting Florida's minority voting protection provision in this manner gives due allegiance to the principles of constitutional construction, under which the Court considers "the purpose of the provision, the evil sought to be remedied, and the circumstances leading to its inclusion in our constitutional document." In re Apportionment Law, 1887 414 So.2d at 1040. Before its placement on the ballot and approval by the citizens of Florida, sponsors of this amendment, including the Florida State Conference of NAACP Branches (NAACP) and Democracia Ahora, acknowledged that Florida's provision tracked the language of Sections 2 and 5 and was perfectly consistent with both the letter and intent of federal law. Namely the part about how retrogression can protect against non 50% minority seats thanks to the fair districts amendments.

9/9/2021 1:44 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

basically good, except "This meant all districts that perform as minority seats, not just those in areas where it is possible to draw a 50% minority VAP district, were protected"

9/9/2021 1:44 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

to reiterate that Section 2/vote dilution doesn't mandate 50%+1 districts

9/9/2021 1:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

i.e. Thurston's districts doesn't have to be 50% BCVAP, but it's protected from vote dilution under Section 2 bc it's possible to draw a 50% BCVAP district in that area

9/11/2021 7:24 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

thanks for that link! so it wont matter soon (as it seems census data will be ready for the easy-to-use downloads on the 16th) but as I mess around in Dade with districts like 117 or the northeast districts, and dealing with the distinction between Black and Hispanic Black, is there any major court cases or analysis that shows if Hispanic black voters are part of a cohesive voting block with african-americans or hispanics? i'm searching around but just want to know if you had any thoughts/resources

9/11/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

General practice in the field is to use "All Black" - Black in combination with others races, regardless of Hispanic

9/11/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But I doubt there's any court case on it

9/11/2021 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The FSC may have commented on using All Black in Apportionment I

9/11/2021 9:24 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

My guess is there's never been litigation in an area where Hispanic-Black was large enough to matter - even Dade in the 90s cases

9/11/2021 9:25 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But if you were measuring cohesion quantitatively using ecological regression/inference, you wouldn't use the census data in FL. You'd use the voter file - where people only check one box. So you wouldn't run into that issue

9/12/2021 6:15 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

this makes sense! and yeah the voting history/reg data is always important. especially for judging things like SD38 or HD117. honestly without functional analysis - crafting dade districts is like drawing the the dark. one constant narrative i've pushed in my redistricting series is how tricky the VAP data from dade can be when determining "control" of a seat

9/12/2021 6:16 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah at least DRA has 2019 CVAP estimates

9/12/2021 6:17 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

that has been very helpful! and then I'm just using some voter data in arcmap to re-run stuff and see how things shake out voting-wise

9/12/2021 6:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

what is current HD117 by reg

9/12/2021 6:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

9/12/2021 6:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I see you can draw at most a ~31% BVAP, 38% BCVAP district now. That obviously means there's no Section 2 right here, but there's clearly a Section 5 right against retrogression

9/12/2021 6:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The VAP numbers add up to 103.9 - so still not that many Hispanic Blacks

9/12/2021 6:25 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so the current reg for 117 is just under 50% hispanic. but the dem primary is 53% black and 35% hispanic

9/12/2021 6:25 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

and in turnout its less hispanic than that

9/12/2021 6:26 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah. So your functional analysis should be focusing on actual turnout and especially share of the Dem primary

9/12/2021 6:26 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But really you should ask whether there's polarization between Hispanic Dems and Black Dems

9/12/2021 6:26 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so how does the law categorize something like 117? id argue is a black seat via functional analysis. am i right?

9/12/2021 6:26 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Because the Black % of the primary would need to be lower if not

9/12/2021 6:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it's a district in which Black voters can elect candidates of choice and that ability is protected from retrogression under FDA

9/12/2021 6:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

have a very good ability, obi

9/12/2021 6:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

obvi

9/12/2021 6:27 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

yep same opinion. its been a black seat forever and functions as such

9/12/2021 6:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

can you tell based on a precinct analysis how the 2020 primary went there?

9/12/2021 6:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I know there were 2 Black candidates and 1 Latina

9/12/2021 6:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

jk 3 Black candidates

9/12/2021 6:29 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

yeah i was about to say, i thought all three were african-american.

9/12/2021 6:30 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

117 has always felt like it was clearly a black seat, census figures be damned. esp as it works to unite black communities along the region

9/12/2021 6:30 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yeah ofc

9/12/2021 6:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and all decade it only had a competitive general in 2014 (76% Dem) and primary in 2012 (66% McGhee against 2 other Black candidates)

9/12/2021 6:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

so there's not much great endogenous data to go on

9/12/2021 6:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

but you could look at other elections where there was Black-Latino split

9/12/2021 6:34 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

so many prominent black-hispanic clashes in the old days, more and more its clear efforts have been made to avoid these fights.

i was doing some digging but curious of your take. is there any cases/suits involving population deviation, specifically where it seems certain districts are always under/over populated. ive seen it batted around in some suits ("oh all the dem seats are maxed out in excess pop") but cant find any court decisions. ditto for race districts.

also of this assuming deviations are under 10%. this is just more about the question of if patterns emerge in who/what is over/under pop

9/17/2021 8:44 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah let me respond over the weekend

9/19/2021 11:03 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

We resolve this question by concluding that the voters' inclusion of this standard in the second tier of article III, section 21, recognizes that, as under the federal constitution, strict and unbending adherence to the equal population requirement will yield to other redistricting considerations, but that those considerations must be based on the express constitutional standards. The Florida

Under Fair Districts: pop deviations have to be balanced with other Fair Districts standards. Any deviations – even those under 10% overall range – have to be justified by an effort to comply with other standards. <https://t.co/zBHjeq7FbW>

9/19/2021 11:03 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

We imbue Florida's provision with the same meaning, subject to this important caveat. Because obtaining equal population "if practicable" is an explicit and important constitutional mandate under the Florida Constitution, any deviation from that goal of mathematical precision must be based upon compliance with other constitutional standards. Accordingly, compliance with Florida's equal population standard must be assessed in tandem with the other constitutional considerations.

The FDP made this claim in 2012 for the Senate plan. The court discussed that in this footnote:

9/19/2021 11:05 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

39. Citing Larios v. Cox, 300 F. Supp. 2d 1320, 1339 (N.D. Ga. 2004), aff'd, 542 U.S. 947 (2004), the FDP also raises a separate claim as to equal population, arguing that the Senate plan deviates from equal population not to serve any rational purpose, but rather to discriminate against Democrats, minorities, and certain regions of the state. The FDP argues that this is done by systematically over-populating Democratic and minority districts. Having examined the numbers, we conclude that the FDP has not established a violation of the equal population provision on this basis alone. This case stands in contrast to Larios, where the population deviations were only barely within the 10% overall range and the evidence was clear that the deviation was the result of the Legislature's belief that the 10% overall range was a "safe harbor," within which it could engage in a systematic and express strategy to over-represent rural areas and Democrats, the party in power.

9/19/2021 11:10 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

That brings us to federal law. Larios v. Cox was a challenge to GA's 2000-cycle Dem gerrymanders. This was the conclusion of the 3-judge panel in that case:

344
9/19/2021 11:10 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

(1) Georgia's state legislative reapportionment plans plainly violate the one person, one vote principle embodied in the Equal Protection Clause because each deviates from population equality by a total of 9.98% of the ideal district population and there are no legitimate, consistently applied state policies which justify these population deviations. Instead, the plans arbitrarily and discriminatorily dilute and debase the weight of certain citizens' votes by intentionally and systematically underpopulating districts in rural south Georgia and inner-city Atlanta, correspondingly overpopulating the districts in suburban areas surrounding Atlanta, and by underpopulating the districts held by incumbent Democrats.

9/19/2021 11:11 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It was a straight-up 1P1V ruling. But remember that 10% isn't a safe harbor - a state has to justify its deviations no matter what they are, and has to do so with rational, legitimate reasons. The court concluded that GA hadn't done so

9/19/2021 11:14 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The population deviations in the Georgia House and Senate Plans are not the result of an effort to further any legitimate, consistently applied state policy. Rather, we have found that the deviations were systematically and intentionally created (1) to allow rural southern Georgia and inner-city Atlanta to maintain their legislative influence even as their rate of population growth lags behind that of the rest of the state; and (2) to protect Democratic incumbents. Neither of these explanations withstands Equal Protection scrutiny. First, forty years of Supreme

9/19/2021 11:17 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The Larios court honed in on the fact that the disparities had a regional impact - which was exactly what the reapportionment revolution overturned. (Then it was rural areas advantaged, in Larios it was urban ATL and Dem South GA)

9/19/2021 11:19 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The state didn't justify the deviations explicitly as partisan gerrymanders, but rather as favoring regional areas and incumbent protection. But incumbent protection wasn't done in a consistent way - so the court rejected that justification too. I don't know if a post-Rucho case would be so quick to reject that justification

9/19/2021 11:20 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And Larios took a really narrow view on what "incumbent protection" was

9/19/2021 11:21 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The Larios panel decision was affirmed summarily by SCOTUS, without argument. Stevens wrote a concurrence, which Breyer joined. Scalia dissented. No other justices wrote

9/19/2021 11:24 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The other major case on this is Allen v. Pataki, a similar challenge to the 2012 NY Senate GOP gerrymander. The court said the deviations were justified bc they took account of traditional redistricting principles like preserving cores of current districts and avoiding incumbent pairings

9/19/2021 11:26 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

that plan was within 10%

9/19/2021 11:28 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

So the short answer to your question is that a federal lawsuit would be a 1P1V claim, if the overall range were under 10% the plan would have a presumption of constitutionality – but plaintiffs could prove a violation if the state didn't apply traditional redistricting principles (including certain flavors of incumbent protection) consistently, especially if there was a stark regional effect in the deviations

9/19/2021 11:28 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But post-Rucho, it's possible SCOTUS or a lower court would conclude that partisan gerrymandering was a state policy that could justify deviations under 10%

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Finallyyyyyyyyy

10/13/2021 9:57 AM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Hey. So I am playing around with orlando area state house districts. It is easy to draw two majority Hispanic districts in Osceola alone. Now since hispanics have been shown to be able to win races without super-charged Hispanic numbers in that area - wouldnt the legislature be obligated to create those two seats (vs the one now). I'm just trying to confirm their legal obligation.

10/13/2021 10:06 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The short answer is probably not, but maybe. The VRA doesn't require maximizing the number of minority-performing districts. If there's already a minority-performing district in a given region, it would be hard to bring a vote dilution case to force a second district, even if 2 CVAP majority districts are possible. Not impossible though, especially if the existing plan isn't proportional – and Hispanic districts aren't proportional to VAP or CVAP, either statewide (14 of 120 districts, when it's 20-25% H statewide) or in the Orlando area (2/10, when it's 32% Hispanic overall). It's definitely a strong argument to use in the legislative process.

10/13/2021 10:07 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I suspect what they will argue is that HD43 must be maintained packed as it exists to avoid diminishment

10/13/2021 10:07 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Which is bullshit obviously

10/13/2021 10:07 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Though the Orlando area really should have a totally new HD, and maybe they cede a seat

10/13/2021 10:17 AM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Fair enough. So I'll stick to a "it is morally right to do this" narrative. Basically to shame them if they don't. And I'll press that VRA complaint would be possible but I won't make a declarative statement

10/13/2021 10:18 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I think it's fine to argue it's required under the VRA

10/13/2021 10:18 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it's a plausible argument, those cases are just hard to bring

10/13/2021 10:19 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

noting how out of whack with proportionality, both regionally and statewide, is helpful (tho Sec 2 explicitly says there's no legal right to proportional representation, it's still a factor to consider)

10/13/2021 11:16 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The Leg was deliberately drawing new HVAP-maj districts last cycle even where they wouldn't elect H candidates of choice, where it suited them. So. Like the one in palm beach

11/11/2021 6:56 PM

Florida Data Geek [F] ua (MappingFL)

What I find amazing is that the Dem primary makeup for their plan is almost the same as mine (and I don't cross the bay). The pinellas portion isnt even that black since they grab a ring of white liberal Dems as well

11/11/2021 7:12 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I know! Mine has a higher black share of Dem primary than the benchmark!!

11/12/2021 9:56 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

oh yeah i wanted to asked you this - i didn't think something like SD38 is really protected, (certainly not VRA - but maybe FDA) --- but what do you think?

11/12/2021 9:56 PM

<https://t.co/HJddTK11jF>

11/12/2021 9:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

would require full analysis of Black cohesion in Dem primaries

11/12/2021 9:59 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

but even if there is cohesion, the ability-to-elect just can't be diminished

11/12/2021 9:59 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

so if there's a 2/5 chance of Black voters electing cand's of choice, a new district can't reduce that 2/5 chance

11/12/2021 10:00 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

that 40% number is actual Black share of Dem voters in recent primaries?

11/12/2021 10:00 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

slash what does that share drop to in this draft?

11/12/2021 10:03 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

current sd38 is 43% black in dem primary

11/12/2021 10:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and in this draft?

11/12/2021 10:05 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

best access seat is 32 (Book's seat) - which would be 34%

11/12/2021 10:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

interesting. you could probably add the rest of miramar and west park and bring that up significantly

11/12/2021 10:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

trading for plantation

11/12/2021 10:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

facially, it's not something the FSC will strike down on initial review given the low % and the fact that Pizzo was likely NOT the black cand of choice (right?). whether a group wants to mount an as-applied challenge in circuit court...

11/12/2021 10:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

those 43/34 numbers are Black share of actual 2020 Dem primary voters?

11/12/2021 10:08 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

yes

11/12/2021 10:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

That seat is probably in same boat

11/12/2021 10:12 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

yeah. they are up to 37% black primary, up from 32%. i'm gonna play around with that as well.

11/12/2021 10:26 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

so here is a question. it looks like 1 or 2 of the miami-dade hispanic districts are gone. does that risk a vra or fair districts violation? or is it accepted because the region was losing districts due to population changes

11/30/2021 6:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Has the House posted a functional analysis chart like the senate did?

11/30/2021 7:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I think there's an argument there are 11 in the benchmark and 11 in the drafts (including 104 and 106)

11/30/2021 7:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Alternatively, I think there's an argument that some or all of benchmark 103, 113, 112, and 114 aren't protected from retrogression bc Hispanic voters don't vote cohesively (i.e. there are too many Hispanic Dems in those districts)

11/30/2021 7:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

But it's more likely the House will say Hispanic voters are cohesive and there's no retrogression in 104 and 106

11/30/2021 7:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It's also possible that they'll argue population loss in the region makes the VRA/retrogression standards subordinate to one person one vote

11/30/2021 7:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Regardless, I don't think there's a viable vote dilution or retrogression claim under either the VRA or FDA

11/30/2021 7:15 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

A proportional Dade delegation would be 10.4 Hispanic, 2.4 Black, 1.95 Anglo

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Okay cool

12/5/2021 8:07 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Just in case you were framing it this way, the # of minority districts "in Dade" isn't legally significant - it's the # in the area. So for example if there are still 5 Black-access districts in North Dade/South Broward, there's no retrogression.

12/5/2021 9:45 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Oh and here's the case that says proportionality is a defense to Sec 2 liability - Johnson v. De Grandy!

<https://t.co/WFseo4RM7R>

12/5/2021 10:01 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Another crucial point about Hispanic districts is that I really doubt that Hispanic voters in South Florida could prove a Sec 2 or Sec 5 right anymore. Not only because of the cohesion question, but because the "totality of the circumstances" analysis no longer point to a lack of opportunity to participate in the political process on an equal basis with whites. Hispanic voters have had enormous electoral success both in Dade and in statewide elections.

12/5/2021 10:01 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And without showing that lack of opportunity in the "totality of the circumstances," Hispanic voters have no right against dilution under Sec 2 or right against retrogression under FDA

12/5/2021 10:07 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"Attaching the labels "packing" and "fragmenting" to these phenomena, without more, does not make the result vote dilution when the minority group enjoys substantial proportionality."

12/5/2021 10:08 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

"Failure to maximize cannot be the measure of § 2."

12/5/2021 10:19 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Looking at the 18 HDs that touch Dade, plus 103, there are: 9 H-majority, 1 H-majority by VAP but H-plurality b

12/5/2021 10:22 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

- 9 majority HVAP/HCVAP
- 1 majority HVAP, plurality HCVAP (103)
- 1 plurality HVAP/HCVAP (106)
- 6 Black ability-to-elect (I assume; it's possible Hispanic voters in Miramar, 117 vote in coalition with Black voters)
- 1 plurality HVAP but majority WVAP (120)

12/5/2021 10:23 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

by CVAP, proportionality within those 18 HDs would be 10.6 Hispanic, 3.5 Black, 3.5 White

12/5/2021 10:24 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The reality is 10 or 11 Hispanic, 6 Black, 1 or 2 White

12/5/2021 11:37 AM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Thanks for that info! But no worries that's not my narrative. I'm not actually going go after then. It's gonna be more of an article where I talk about the trade offs that must be made when balancing racial districts with underpopulated areas - and how a region can lose power over time.

12/5/2021 12:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Okay cool ;)

12/5/2021 12:29 PM

12/13/2021 10:19 AM

There is simply no partisan intent in any of the draft maps. They drew new Dem seats voluntarily! The committee chair's own district gets shaken up dramatically!

12/13/2021 10:54 AM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

I see packing and cracking in Tampa. Which I'll argue in my upcoming article.

12/13/2021 10:55 AM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

The draw good in some areas to shield them from bad lines in others.

12/13/2021 10:56 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Which indicates a lack of intent! The lines fell where they did. There's no grand scheme or plan

12/13/2021 10:56 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

They're party-blind

12/13/2021 10:57 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And some of the things people are complaining about, like HD70 not being in just St Pete, or Gainesville being split, would reduce the # of Dem seats if "fixed"

12/13/2021 10:57 AM

Oh come on. You have to start with 62 and 63. "They" (which is Leda Kelly and Jason Poreda) found a creative way to maintain 70 that doesn't split Palmetto, Bradenton, Sarasota and those counties

394
12/13/2021 10:58 AM

You can even see the Peppet support in the Black/Bahamian hood in coconut grove

12/28/2021 4:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The City of Starke only received one bid for a redistricting consultant and the cost was really high for them - if you're AT ALL interested, they're having a meeting on 1/4 5:30pm

12/28/2021 4:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

If you're interested, connect with the city staff and they may vote to reopen the bids hey sorry when you messaged me i was covid sick. i've been getting back into the grove of things but i'm still pretty tired easily. so i'm gonna pass cause between work and my current redistricting work - i cant strain myself too much (no late nights right now). thank god for that vax/booster though. largely felt like a flu.

1/13/2022 1:09 PM

Leek's position w/r/t Haitians seems to be that they may be protected as a language minority under the Fla Const, but we can only use decennial census data, and they're not in the file we received, so even tho they're protected, we can't do anything about it. Even tho we did 10 years ago. And we could consider Haitian data as a policy matter, but we aren't. And we aren't explaining why.

Attachment with type image/png so here is a question, cause i'm doing some CD10 research. thanks partly due to turnout disparities and also a registration changes, african-americans aren't likelt to control 50%+ of a dem primary for CD10. this is current borders but same is true for draft plans. of course the senate still has black voters outpacing white voters in the primary, while that one house plan gives white voters a plurality. so the two chambers are def at different odds. but could house defenders use this change in 10 to say "see its not even a solid black seat?" <https://t.co/LVNw3gelpx>

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Thank you!!!! Beautiful

1/15/2022 8:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

You could add also that this isn't just true in state court, fed courts same dynamic with fed challenges - leg process and alternative maps are key

1/15/2022 8:49 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I forgot that point. pre-buttal to ppl arguing the new FSC won't give a shit

1/15/2022 8:51 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

On your question: whether a minority group has an ability to elect its preferred candidates of choice doesn't hinge on whether it composes 51% in a particular party primary

1/15/2022 8:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Just as it doesn't hinge on whether it composes 51% in the general. Those may be relevant points but obviously there is white crossover voting and hispanic-black coalitional voting, so there may be Black ability-to-elect at lower than 51% in the Dem primary

1/15/2022 8:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

That's the case in HD20, for example. Benchmark is under 50% Black in Dem primary, but the House keeps it around 45% (8007) or 43% (8005) (those are the 2014-2020 averages)

1/15/2022 8:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And HD20 really bothers me actually - that's clearly a district the House considers protected from retrogression. But it has such similar stats to CD20. Why are they analyzing it differently?

1/15/2022 8:57 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Also, it's super reckless for the House to conclude that CD10 isn't protected based on a sub-43% Black primary share and sub-40% registration share. There hasn't been a competitive primary there since 2016! They have no idea how much crossover/coalition voting there would be (we may find out this year of course). You can look at exogenous elections - gov, cabinet, prez, countywide races etc - but those aren't as probative

1/15/2022 8:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

And of course Demings got 57% in her 2016 primary - showing a lot of non-Black voters supported her too

That works!

1/16/2022 9:18 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

desantis map actually creates 5 hispanic mak districts by having DWS go into hialeah! her seat is still dem and 50% HVAP - but obv would not be maj in voting and creates a classic situation whether there isn't strong cohesion

1/16/2022 9:18 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

but i bet that will be the talking point "oh we created 5 hispanic seats"

1/16/2022 9:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yeah I noticed that with DWS. bare majority

1/16/2022 9:21 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and you're right, that must be a TP if they even try

1/16/2022 9:22 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the CVAPs are low - 45%, 50.5% for 20 and 26

1/16/2022 9:23 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they're probably right if they argue this doesn't violate federal law tho

1/16/2022 9:23 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

all I see are FDA violations

1/16/2022 9:23 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

which are not nothing obviously

1/16/2022 9:25 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

oh the FSC would strike this down 100%

1/16/2022 9:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they could have gotten away with something a bit more moderate if that was their strategy from the getgo, but not after everything in the leg record

1/16/2022 9:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

EOG got all those calls after that tweet and Ryan Newman immediately logged onto DRA

1/16/2022 9:27 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

btw, if he vetoes a leg passed map, can they override if they have the votes? or does it auto go to court to decide? also can he pocket veto (or let it become law without signing?) - just trying to game this out

1/16/2022 9:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they can veto

1/16/2022 9:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

*they can override lol

1/16/2022 9:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

a court would step in if there's doubt about whether there'll be a constitutional plan in time for the elections

1/16/2022 9:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm looking up the pocket veto rule lol

1/16/2022 9:28 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

p sure bills become law without his signature

1/16/2022 9:29 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

becomes law 7 days after presentation, unless Leg is/has adjourned, in which case it's 15 days

1/16/2022 9:30 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm sure Elias will sue in NDFL if he vetoes or even threatens to veto, but court would probably abstain and dismiss as premature until veto is actually made

1/16/2022 9:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

even then, court will not actually order a plan implemented if the veto is overridden or if a valid plan is adopted before the election

1/16/2022 9:31 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

even if Elias gets a trigger-happy judge, court would probably say the development/ordering of an interim plan is contingent on a duly enacted plan not emerging

1/16/2022 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

anyway. it's gonna be super fun to gloat when this is all over

1/16/2022 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

especially if it's a veto override!

1/16/2022 9:32 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

god that would be delicious

1/16/2022 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

or if the court just adopts the Leg's plan, which honestly is the likeliest option

418
1/16/2022 9:33 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

as long as there's no allegations the Leg's plan violates the law, there's no reason the court shouldn't just adopt it

1/16/2022 9:34 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

a least-change map would basically be the same thing

1/16/2022 9:34 PM

this is sort of exactly what Dems did in the 80s, cracking Hialeah and the Cuban corridor btwn CD16, 17, 18, which the courts fixed in 1992 by drawing CD18 and 21 as solidly Latino ability-to-elect right on.

1/18/2022 11:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Did they fix the Haitian issue with 108/109? I can never remember where the Haitian pop is versus A-A. But the districts are oriented vertical again and I thought they did that last time to keep the Haitian community together in one HD

1/18/2022 11:33 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Ohhhh good question. I'll check

1/18/2022 11:33 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

thanks :)

1/18/2022 11:34 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

some of the districts where they were using a clear 50% BVAP quota have dropped below 50% in service of tier 2 improvements. Pantazi wrote about it a ton

429
1/19/2022 3:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It's not totally absurd but it is wrong

1/19/2022 3:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Like, someone could have challenged CD5 as a racial gerrymander and gone to trial. But they would have lost

1/19/2022 3:09 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

They talk about the 5th like it's the 1992 third. Just a bunch of crazy lines.

1/19/2022 3:09 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

And their Hispanic claim is of course nonsense.

1/19/2022 3:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yeah obvi

1/19/2022 3:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

A district doesn't have to be ugly to be a racial gerrymander tho

1/19/2022 3:11 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Th question is just if race predominated in the decision to put a large number of voters inside or outside the district

1/19/2022 3:12 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

I know. I'm just more focused on their claims about not being retrogressive.

"We were operating under the parameters that the courts offered in the lawsuits that occurred after the last round of reapportionment," Rodrigues said. "It is clear from those lawsuits that our responsibility in creating these maps is to ensure there's no retrogression. We are 100% confident that there is no retrogression with that map that we have passed off the floor today. And we're prepared to defend that map in court if necessary." He said the Senate has operated under the premise any map ordered in place by the Florida Supreme Court in 2015 was "in and of itself constitutional."

1/20/2022 6:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I don't think there was an explicit deal, but rather an unwillingness to rock the boat lest it backfire and things get shaken up all over

1/20/2022 6:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

combined with a lack of understanding of the facts and issues

no it's the argument that will be made in court if FL-5 survives

1/20/2022 10:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they make 2 assumptions that I'd contest, but they're not unreasonable to make or argue

1/20/2022 10:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and they would not be laughed out of court

1/20/2022 10:03 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

ok you lost me. to be clear. any remote shot FL-5 doesnt survive a court challenge?

1/20/2022 10:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I wouldn't bet on it surviving a court challenge as an unconstitutional racial gerrymander in violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment or alternatively, a district that violates Tier 2 and is not justified by compliance with Tier 1 - not because it's not necessary to avoid diminishing - but because it's an unconstitutional racial gerrymander under the federal constitution (as above), which preempts Tier 1 obviously!

1/20/2022 10:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

1/20/2022 10:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

RRH isn't really contesting that under existing FDA law, FL-5 is required

1/20/2022 10:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

they omit that it was struck down as a racial gerrymander and redrawn to the satisfaction of a federal court in 1996. but the law on racial gerrymandering has changed since then

1/20/2022 10:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and also obviously everyone agrees what the FDA retrogression standard means, and Shelby Cnty obviously doesn't change that. but other than those points, the RRH argument would be the case brought to dismantle it and it could be in either state or federal court depending on where the plaintiffs preferred

1/20/2022 10:08 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

1/20/2022 10:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the big legal question is whether race predominated in the drawing of the district. that triggers strict scrutiny. but it's fknng hard to establish that race predominated in a normal case

1/20/2022 10:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

In the Alabama Legislative Black Caucus remand, the plaintiffs challenged 36 districts. The AL federal court (now-11th Circuit Chief Judge Bill Pryor writing) found race didn't predominate in 22. It found race predominated but there was a compelling interest in 2. It struck down 12.

1/20/2022 11:55 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i gotcha

1/20/2022 11:58 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

what about cohesion arguments? the rivalry of tallahassee v jax. i think thats a weak claim but tell me if im wrong there

1/21/2022 12:27 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

yes, that's not that strong, but that's only relevant to whether the district is required by FDA's retrogression standard (cohesion prong).

1/21/2022 12:52 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the real argument is (1) race predominated in the drawing of the district, and (2) the state didn't have a compelling interest for doing so, because compliance with some state's retrogression standard isn't an interest compelling enough to excuse race predominating.

1/21/2022 12:53 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Nov 2017

1/22/2022 6:58 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

oh yeah! like durring this time i even remember meating with Jenne and some other lawmkaers - all planning to prep for 2021 redistricting. the big talk was to really make lawmakers redistricting smart. to understand how to submit plans and understand what tricks would be pulled. but nothing ever really came of it after that

Based on the findings of fact and conclusions of law explained below, including our assessments of the credibility of expert witnesses, we conclude that the Milligan plaintiffs are substantially likely to establish that the Plan violates Section Two of the Voting Rights Act. More particularly, we conclude that the Milligan plaintiffs are substantially likely to establish each part of the controlling Supreme Court test, including: (1) that Black Alabamians are sufficiently numerous to constitute a voting-age majority in a second congressional district (Black Alabamians comprise approximately 27% of the State's population, and Alabama has seven congressional seats); (2) that Alabama's Black population in the challenged districts is sufficiently geographically compact to constitute a voting-age majority in a second reasonably configured district (the Milligan plaintiffs and the Carter plaintiffs submitted many illustrative plans that include a second majority-Black district and respect Alabama's traditional redistricting principles); (3) that voting in the challenged districts is intensely racially polarized (this is not genuinely in dispute); and (4) that under the totality of the circumstances, including the factors

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I think CA11 and SCOTUS will stay the injunction, probably

1/24/2022 8:36 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

gotcha.

1/24/2022 8:44 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

1/24/2022 8:57 PM

For the cases directly appealable to it, SCOTUS can't "not take" them. It will have to affirm or reverse

1/30/2022 4:27 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Looking now!

1/30/2022 4:40 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it was a three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Florida (federal court in Tallahassee) that appointed the special master and adopted the Gelfand map, not the Florida Supreme Court

1/30/2022 4:41 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The panel included a Carter-appointed 11th Circuit judge, a Ford-appointed district judge , and a Reagan-appointed district judge

1/30/2022 4:41 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The latter two are still on the bench!

1/30/2022 4:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the court opinion says FL-17 was 54% BVAP ?

1/30/2022 4:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and FL-03 BVAP 50.6% ?

1/30/2022 4:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

FL-23 was 45.7 BVAP

1/30/2022 4:43 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

this is all from that court opinion

1/30/2022 4:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Jax's Arnett Girardeau was the first Black state legislator since Reconstruction, elected to the House in 1976

1/30/2022 4:54 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Lawson was elected to the House in '82

1/30/2022 4:55 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Girardeau was actually the first Black legislator elected anywhere outside Miami since Reconstruction

1/30/2022 4:57 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

I should reword that. Really shows I don't view jax as part of north florida I guess.

1/30/2022 4:57 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

but yeah in the Panhandle

1/30/2022 4:58 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Lawson repped the eastern panhandle, not western

1/30/2022 4:59 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Ah yeah need reworking. Meant to emphasize he repped the west end of the 5th district.

1/30/2022 5:00 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

FL-14 debate in 2015 wasn't about minority cohesion

1/30/2022 5:01 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

That was a gop talking point though. Their justification for it

1/30/2022 5:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Nope

1/30/2022 5:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The Legislature's asserted justification for picking up voters from Pinellas County in District 14 was to increase minority voting strength in that district, which the Legislature considered to be preferable—though not required—from a state constitutional tier-one and federal Voting Rights Act perspective. The trial court did not, however, make any findings that it was necessary to add black voters from Pinellas County to District 14 in order to avoid diminishing the ability of black voters to elect a representative of their choice

1/30/2022 5:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

at least, the Leg didn't argue that it was legally required or protected from retrogression/dilution

1/30/2022 5:04 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

I never said they argued it was mandated. I'm saying they made arguments - on camera - that they were creating a coalition seat

1/30/2022 5:04 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

And that argument was rejected because their was no black and Hispanic cohesion

1/30/2022 5:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

kk

1/30/2022 3:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm just saying cohesion was not an issue in the cases

1/30/2022 5:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and did not come up

1/30/2022 5:05 PM

Florida Data Geek [+] ua (MappingFL)

My point is just to highlight when a coalition seat isn't really cohesion.

1/30/2022 5:05 PM

Florida Data Geek [+] ua (MappingFL)

If there is a better district yo use let me know. I just need a 3 sentence throw away example of cohesion of minority voters being an issue.

1/30/2022 5:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the supreme court found a lack of evidence of cohesion among Latino voters in South Florida, but cohesion between different racial groups hasn't been an issue

1/30/2022 5:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

a better example would be the 1990 Hardee County decision from the 11th Circuit

1/30/2022 5:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

<https://casetext.com/case/concerned-citizens-v-hardee-county-bd>
<https://t.co/x5fjsXKrW1>

1/30/2022 5:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

which found the plaintiffs hadn't proven Black and Latino voters in Hardee County voted cohesively

1/30/2022 5:09 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

other point in What About the Conservative Court - the Supreme Court might not even have a say if the leg doesn't pass a plan. the case could easily be brought in federal court

1/30/2022 5:09 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

which would be bound by the precedents of the Fla Supreme Court and couldn't overturn them

1/30/2022 5:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

also, in 2015, Charles Canady and Ricky Polston actually expressed concern that the east-west FL-05 would retrogress! They're on record as admitting such a district can't retrogress

1/30/2022 5:10 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

also I'd reword "At no point was the idea of eliminating the 3rd as a minority district considered. Court cases had not struck down minority districts, but rather how they were drawn."

1/30/2022 5:14 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

lots of ways to change but suggest: "Court cases had not struck down the concept of drawing districts in which minority voters could elect candidates of choice, but rather were policing just how far states could go in subordinating traditional redistricting criteria to race when drawing districts. The federal court that struck down the 1992 CD3 accepted the new Jax-

Orlando version as a fair balance between protecting minority voters and following traditional redistricting criteria."

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

Basically: if leg process deadlocks, it could end up in either state circuit court or federal district court before a three-judge panel, and it can't be predicted which exactly would order a new map for 2022. But it's extremely unlikely anything remotely close to the DeSantis map is implemented by a court

This is the same tactic used to gut A4

2/1/2022 3:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

the "CD5 is a racial gerrymander" argument is compelling to a conservative court, and while hard to bring in federal court in an as-applied challenge to an adopted map, it's almost easier for the FSC to answer that question in a fucked up way in an advisory opinion, since they won't have a detailed factual record and they'll be able to make shit up

I don't even think it's nefarious, I think it's just sloppy. If HD20 weren't protected, they could make a Gainesville sink whatever the legal advice is, it's sloppy. but I've said all along all/most of the issues in every map have been problems in legal advice

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

Oh so I want to clarify something before I start saying it. So the legislature continues to have cd25 cross the glades into collier and sometimes hendry (draft depending). They argue this because they claim Hispanics there deserve a voice. Right? (I know hendry used to be under section 5). If they maintain that claim. That gives credit to cd5 giving rural black voters a voice

So can I argue inconsistent views form them. Or am I stretching

3/1/2022 2:59 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

And legalities may be one thing. I'm just trying to catch them in hypocrisy.

3/1/2022 3:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No, they argue it's necessary to ensure there's no retrogression in all 3 maj-H districts

3/1/2022 3:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It's not about Latino voters in Collier/Hendry anymore

3/1/2022 3:30 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

So why do they do it? Like what is their claimed reason?

3/1/2022 3:31 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

If I ask a representative "why did your cross the Everglades" - what would they say? Would they incorrectly claim they must to get the Hispanic numbers needed. Or so they claim something else?

Back to Everglades: They would incorrectly claim they must get the Hispanic numbers needed

3/1/2022 4:38 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

They would say that if you don't cross the everglades, Latino voters are packed into CD25 and CD27 becomes too Democratic and white

3/1/2022 4:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Because a majority of Dem primary in that CD27 would be white, and Republicans wouldn't be competitive in the general

3/2/2022 12:59 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm not sure. I don't know if there's usually not Senate companions for these local bills, or if it should died for lack of a Senate companion like a normal bill

3/2/2022 5:46 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

I was able to confirm it does need the senate. And Clemens has it there. Still imagine it could die if time goes short but we will see

3/2/2022 5:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

There's no companion in the Senate, and Clemons is a rep

3/2/2022 5:50 PM

I mean the house bill has been referred to Rules so it's either need to be heard in Rules or leadership send it straight to the floor

3/2/2022 5:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Committees aren't meeting anymore so leadership would have to send it to the floor. Unusual but not unheard of

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

Sarasota SMD bad - Alachua SMD good. makes perfect sense!

3/7/2022 9:42 PM
 Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

actually speaking of that. i want to make sure this isn't a fever dream. did you tell me suwannee county was single-member?

3/7/2022 9:42 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Yep! And I have their map

3/7/2022 9:42 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

They had a VRA consent decree in the 80s. School board and county commn

3/7/2022 9:43 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

thats right! ok FL association of counties is out of date!

3/7/2022 9:43 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

let me guess, they haven't redistricted since the 80s?

3/8/2022 12:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

it's not the most equal but they've definitely redistricted since 1985

3/8/2022 12:03 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Jesus. Let me guess. Prisons part of this deviation?

3/8/2022 12:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No actually, this is prison-adjusted. There's a prison in D4 so deviation would be even worse if it were included

3/8/2022 12:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

D2 is the VRA seat - it was 56% Black by POP and registration in 1985. Now it's only 41% BVAP

3/8/2022 12:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

If you expanded it to equalize population, you'd likely eliminated Black ability to elect

3/8/2022 12:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

same dynamic in Calhoun and Bradford and a few others

3/8/2022 12:05 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Gulf as well

3/8/2022 12:05 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Wow. That becomes really thorny. How much deviation is worth representation. Could these stand up in court? I think it's a very curious situation.

3/8/2022 12:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No, a court would definitely strike this map down under 1P1V

3/8/2022 12:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

You can't draw a 50%+ BVAP district here anymore, there's no Sec 2 claim

3/8/2022 12:06 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

This is all secret btw...

3/8/2022 12:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

So yeah please don't draw attention to it or the other ones. We convinced Calhoun not to chance their districts...

3/8/2022 12:07 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

change*

3/8/2022 12:11 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

Don't worry I won't. Anny chance I can get the Suwannee map? I just wanna update my shapefile of the districts. I'm working on update to my local control articles. Gotta go back and fix Suwannee.

3/8/2022 12:14 PM

here is the key data point i see. for the NO camp to have a good chance at winning, they need to be winning vote-by-mail report by likely a 56-44 margin or better, which would indicate could party split in their favor. if NO lead is narrower, then its more partisan and likely to lose

What is your legal take. Is this bill to limit who can run for soil and water board gonna hold up? Seems like the qualifications being changed arbitrarily by the leg is vulnerable. Or is it within their discretion?

3/9/2022 12:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Really haven't focused on it tbh. But the SWDs are created by statute in the first place, so I don't see why the Leg can't create qualifications that are arguably relevant

I don't see how a court can simply implement the legislature's map. That would be the same thing as the court overriding the governors veto, which would be a problem for separation of powers. It's not the courts role to override; it's the legislature's

If the court has to pick a plan. They could ask for submissions. And leg submits there's. And court says "yeah this works". Trust me I'd rather they pick senate map. But I don't see why the leg map wouldn't have the most legitimacy in the eyes of the court.

Back to statewide: the leg map wouldn't have the most legitimacy bc the gov vetoed it. It's just inappropriate for a court to straight-up override the gov's veto like that. And the plaintiffs will be making that argument I'm sure, as will the gov

precinct file question, is it critical the precinct borders are perfect? i'm looking at the 1990s precinct files I snagged from that old redistricting site, and I get a strong sense these precinct borders are smoothed and meant to be approximates - like used to broadly get redistricting political data, but perhaps not perfect street-by-street layers

6/1/2022 11:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

You got them from the 2012 site? Or FREDs 2000?

6/1/2022 11:45 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Or something else

519
6/1/2022 11:46 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I'm now also looking for all Duval precincts 2011-2020 lol

6/1/2022 11:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Even if the old ones aren't perfect, I think it'll be enough for me to go on. I'm needing to trace the 1991, 1992, and 1995 Duval council redistrictings (yes they had 3 maps that decade), but the map scans I have are super low quality. The precincts have to align with council districts, so having the precincts will make it easier to match up the lines in the scans

6/1/2022 11:48 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

The precinct names also have to match which council district they were in

6/2/2022 12:53 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Please let me buy the 2011-20 precincts at least

6/2/2022 1:02 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

You don't gotta buy nothing. Yeah so what I'll do this evening is I'll get everything I have sent in zip file. The 1990s stuff is from FRED. There is also a 1995 VTD file I have. And then everything 2010-2020.

Many of the parcel IDs don't match from the shp to the csv

6/2/2022 8:22 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i think i know the issue

6/2/2022 8:23 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

If you possibly could send me a joined SHP that would be so incredible :)

520
6/2/2022 8:23 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

try covering the CSV into a proper table, a dbase, i tend to load the cvs into access and then export it out as a table

6/2/2022 8:24 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

cause arc is not reading all 100,000 rows with a csv

6/2/2022 8:24 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I don't have a database manager, but I don't think that's it

6/2/2022 8:37 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i cant get the file to download. but by and large a CSV file wont work because the rows are too long, excel or dbase work best. excel will be slow though at first, but you want to save the file as an excel file, old compatability version

6/2/2022 8:37 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

csv i think cuts off at like 40,000 rows or so when its appended to a shapefile in arc or qgis

6/2/2022 8:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

For some reason I don't think that's it, but if there's any way you can send me joined SHP :))))))

6/2/2022 8:39 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It probably is it. But it may be other things too

6/2/2022 8:40 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

It's SO annoying the SHP itself has data in it, but not the complete tax roll

6/2/2022 8:49 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

do me a fave and email my your csv file formatted exactly how you want, then i will try running it through my system and see if it works.

6/2/2022 9:56 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Great, thanks! Just sent a ZIP with the csv and shp to matthew.isbell.dem@gmail.com

6/2/2022 10:50 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

well i'll be damned, that is not the problem, and i'm not entirely sure what is going on

6/2/2022 10:51 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL)

i will have to check in the AM at the office, something is up, i'm guessing its a character issue "extra spaces or something" - but i'm gonna need to show this to someone else tomorrow

6/2/2022 10:52 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Okay thank you 🙏
I spot checked a few of the ones that didn't match, and at least some of them are parcel IDs with normal numeric-only, no-space, no letters format. So I really don't know

6/2/2022 10:53 PM

Florida Data Geek  ua (MappingFL) yeah if it was just the ones with spaces in the middle, it would make sense, but pure numbers have same issue, sooooo gonna have to look into that in retrospect i may also ask "why dont we offer a pre-joined shapefile"

521
6/2/2022 10:54 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

6/2/2022 10:54 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

but i am sure there is a reason from IT, but i'll check in tomorrow

6/2/2022 10:55 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

oh other note i am getting the folder of duval precincts set up, i'll have that done tomorrow at latest

6/2/2022 11:01 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Thanks!!!

6/5/2022 6:15 PM

I'm going out of the country Tuesday, if it's possible to send me that stuff before then I'd appreciate it!

6/5/2022 8:38 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

hey nick! no worries sorry for delays. i'm getting the jax precinct data to you now. on friday i totally forgot about the tax parcel stuff lol - but i just sent a message to my work email so i'll see it in the morning

6/5/2022 9:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Thanks! Can you send me the 2011-20 precincts tonight?

6/5/2022 9:32 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

oh right! ok adding that now

6/5/2022 9:32 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

ty ty

6/5/2022 9:47 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

sent over! there are 2010, 2012, 2014 files, and then it was updated again for 2018

6/5/2022 10:02 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

thank you!

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I can send you a shapefile, just credit me

9/19/2022 11:19 AM

I have been tracking FL Supreme Court retention votes for years. Back when the court was liberal, retentions failed in rural counties. Now, a right-ring court had led to weaker retention votes in cities

This so great - but I think some of those rurals also had weaker #s for DCA judges. Like there was a general culture of voting against all the bums rather than anger at the liberal FSC

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

Attachment with type image/png they did - but that has also changed as well <https://t.co/U1iEYTN9a>

11/14/2022 2:15 AM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

and its only shifted more this year - 1st circuit retentions are up to 65%+ this year. i think its Supreme Court attitude that reflects in circuit level retentions

11/14/2022 2:16 AM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

so as retention for top court has risen with rurals, so has circuit retention - and vice versa

I support it! I favor forward-thinking redistricting.

33% Hispanic reg when you know that's the ceiling bc of differential turnout... that's not Hispanic access

1/18/2023 9:18 AM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

Now it isn't. But as cycles go on that share will grow. And in the meantime you give them a block of votes to wield influence. The 2024 race there will see Hispanic focus in the campaigns.

I'm def a more aggressive map drawer. I favor these types of efforts. If there was a partisan issue that might effect things - but both districts are democratic. 2 looks weird but it's still in a concentrated area. I'm willing to trade 2's shape for 3

2/15/2023 8:38 AM

Your chart on the Demings v senate Dems map is a duplicate of the Crist chart

2/15/2023 9:23 AM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

Yeah same chart but you see the table has both Demings and Crist vs.

I'm finding that the Black share of the 2022 general electorate in Perry is the same as the Black share of registered voters - odd, right?

3/9/2023 6:30 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

No differential turnout between black/white

3/9/2023 8:02 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

oh really? def possible - the county def wasn't that way (went from 13% of reg to 9% of vote)

3/9/2023 8:03 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Ugh now I think there's something wrong with my data

3/9/2023 8:04 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Can you give me your topline black and white reg/voted numbers countywide?

3/9/2023 8:07 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

| | Black | Hispanic | White | Other | Total |
|---------|--------|----------|--------|--------|--------|
| reg | 1,814 | 152 | 11,395 | 454 | 13,815 |
| vote | 683 | 65 | 6,579 | 164 | 7,491 |
| turnout | 37.65% | 42.76% | 57.74% | 36.12% | 54.22% |

here is county - and i think perry is 4 specific precincts, so i should be able to pull that up easy enough

3/9/2023 8:15 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

| | Black | Hispanic | White | Other | Total | black % | White % |
|---------|--------|----------|--------|--------|--------|---------|---------|
| reg | 1,557 | 46 | 2,256 | 161 | 4,020 | 38.73% | 56.12% |
| vote | 615 | 15 | 1,276 | 40 | 1,946 | 31.60% | 65.57% |
| turnout | 39.50% | 32.61% | 56.56% | 24.84% | 48.41% | | |

3/9/2023 8:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

ugh

3/9/2023 8:18 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I have 10,023 total voters for 2022 general

3/9/2023 8:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

now, I have 7,505 for 2020 general turnout

3/9/2023 8:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

that's closer to your 2022 number, 7,491

3/9/2023 8:20 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

I wonder if my data person got the elections mixed up

3/9/2023 8:49 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

hmmm yeah maybe. cause 10k seems more like a presidential cycle

3/10/2023 11:10 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

and that 13,815 reg # includes inactive?

3/10/2023 11:30 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

okay I think I figured it out

3/10/2023 11:31 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Lordy. In their District 5, registration is 48% Black, 50% white

3/10/2023 11:31 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

2022 electorate was 59% white, 39% Black

3/10/2023 11:22 PM

Florida Data Geek ua (MappingFL)

oh that sounds much more realistic. god damn just terrible turnout

3/10/2023 11:36 PM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Trying to redistrict it to 56% black reg. Would still have been just 50/50 in 2022 tho

3/13/2023 9:37 AM

Nicholas Warren (NLVWarren)

Why did Jefferson have such high turnout?

3/13/2023 10:38 PM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

you know im not sure. jefferson turnout is only narrowly behind sumter with turnout (using both inactive and active). they just did a good job turning there 20 voters out i guess your legend on the blank ballot map in Jax at large 1 is flipped, right?

3/22/2023 10:50 AM

Florida Data Geek [T] ua (MappingFL)

Ugh yeah messed that up. Should have been a legend that was 20% to 0%. Basically the % I actually did was share of city 1 ballots actually filled out. So lower number = more blank. That legend is confusing.
